POLITICAL NEWS.

Cong. McEttrick says he used two years salary in advancing his campaign. He deserved defeat. But for him McNary would have been elected.

Senator Fitzgerald is elected to take the place of Congressman O'Neil and is the only democratic congressman from Massachusetts. The interests of the Massachusetts democracy will thus rest with a political stripling.

The turn over of the French vote to the republicans together with the candidacy of Thomas F. Connolly caused Brady's defeat.

Mr. Connolly and his populist friends in the Central Labor union can take to themselves a fair share of the credit of defeating Senator Brady, a staunch friend of labor and of electing Mr. Foss, a republican.

Brady received 338 less than Foss and 195 less than Fifield throughout the city.

In Ward Four Fifield got 620, Brady 539 a difference of 81.

In Ward Three Fifield received 1631, Brady 1622 which shows that there was no truth in the statement that Brady's friends cut Fifield.

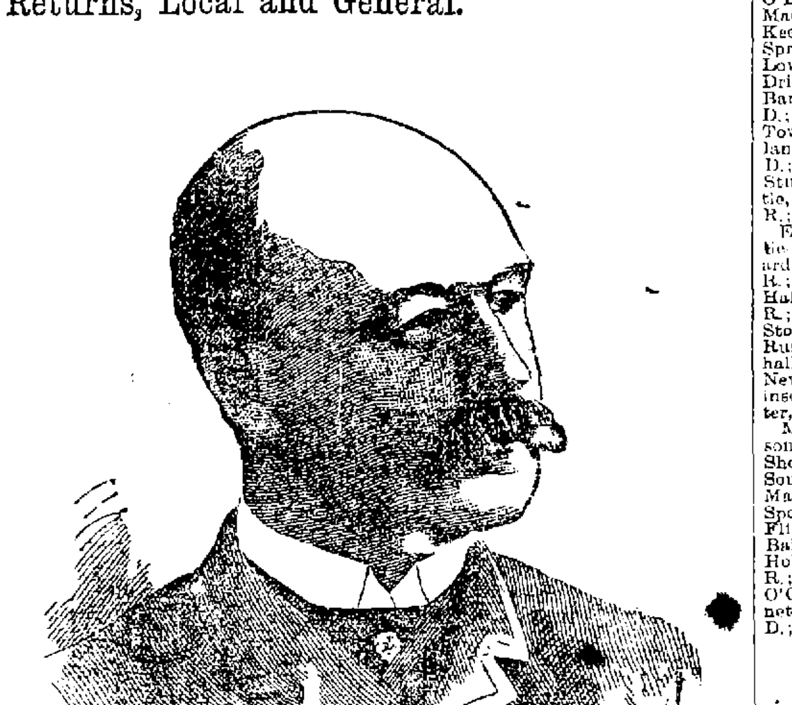
A GENERAL POLITICAL SWEEP.

In Which the G. O. P. Has Scored a Triumph.

Governor Greenhalge Carries the State by Over 50,000 and This City by 1198—Fifield and Brady Go Down in the Overwhelming Cataclysm—The A. P. A. Give Wolcott a Severe Blow—The Populists Rejoice in Brady's Defeat and Foss's Victory—The French Gone Over Body and Boots to the G. O. P.—Complete Returns, Local and General.



Owing to the prostration of wires in New England by the recent storm the election returns are coming in slowly. Figures received indicate that the next congress will be strongly Republican. Morton carried New York state by an enormous majority. There was an extraordinary uprising against corruption in New York city, and Tammany suffered a complete Waterloo. Strong's election as mayor by about 30,000 is conceded, and Reformer Goff was elected recorder.

It is estimated that Greenhalge's plurality in Massachusetts will figure up 50,000. Republicans gained all over the state, Fitzgerald of Boston being the only Democrat elected to congress. Russell's plurality in Boston was whittled down to 3000.

Summed up, the Republican victories appear to be general, tremendous majorities being recorded in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Chairman Wilson of the ways and means committee failed of re-election by the narrow margin of 16.

Babcock's Estimate.

Chairman Babcock of the Republican committee sent out a dispatch from Washington last night saying that the gains in Republican congressmen elected already received indicate that the party will control the next house. His latest claim is that the Republicans already have based on the returns at hand 190 seats, the Democrats 152 and the Populists 12, giving the Republicans a majority of 26. The Democrats do not concede this claim. Here is his latest table:

How Mill Operatives Voted.

A careful review of returns showing the result of the election in the New England states emphasizes the position of mill operatives, as the heaviest Republican gains are noted in the manufacturing centers.

The recent period of depression, accompanied by strikes and lockouts, has been freely used during the campaign, and the claim was made that the hard times were the direct result of Democratic tariff action and the lack of confidence in that party's management at Washington.

Whether true or false, this cry appears to have had a marked influence, and many men who in the past have supported the Democratic party and its candidates are this year reported as voting for Republican candidates or staying away from the polls altogether.

The strength of this feeling is perhaps better shown in the Thirteenth congressional district in Massachusetts, where Robert Howard, a strong labor advocate and champion, running upon the Democratic ticket, failed to secure the vote of the laboring classes.

THE RETURNS.

Bay State Republicans Won a Greater Victory Than Was Anticipated.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The story of the Massachusetts election can easily be told. The triumph of the Republicans is so complete that even the Democratic leaders are stunned at the result. Governor Greenhalge is re-elected chief executive of this state by a majority of more than 60,000, 12 of the 13 congressmen are Republicans, and the state legislature in both branches is completely under the control of the same party.

On account of the storm, which crippled and in some cases destroyed entirely the telegraphic service of the state, returns have come in slowly, but all that have reached this city tell the same story, and that of a Democratic Waterloo. Since the beginning of the campaign the re-election of Governor Greenhalge has been conceded by his opponents, the only question being one of majority. Naturally, therefore, the greatest interest centered in the contests in the different congressional districts.

In the present congress Massachusetts was represented by nine Republicans and four Democratic members. In no case was a Democratic congressman renominated, and in only one case has a candidate for congressional honors been successful. John F. Fitzgerald in the Ninth district, at present represented by Joseph H. O'Neil, pulls through with the lead of perhaps 2500. In Congressman Stevens' district Candidate Knox (Rep.) is elected by a substantial majority, as is William E. Barrett in the Seventh district.

The hottest and most acrimonious contest was in the Tenth district, at present represented by Congressman McEttrick. William S. McNary received a regular Democratic nomination, McEttrick running independent. These Democrats were opposed by Harrison H. Atwood, the regular Republican nominee, and F. W. Peabody, bolting Republican.

As the campaign progressed it became a Kilkenny fight, in which personal views and matters foreign to a political campaign entered freely. Atwood alone refrained from tactics of the kind, and by his silence gained not only Republican votes, but the support of many Democrats, who were disgusted with the action of the Democrats. The full congressional delegation elected is as follows:

New England Congressmen.

First district, A. B. Wright, R.
Second district, F. H. Gillett, R.
Third district, J. H. Walker, R.
Fourth district, L. D. Apsley, R.
Fifth district, W. E. Knox, R.
Sixth district, William Cogswell, R.
Seventh district, W. E. Barrett, R.
Eighth district, S. W. McCall, R.
Ninth district, J. F. Fitzgerald, D.
Tenth district, H. H. Atwood, R.
Eleventh district, W. F. Draper, R.
Twelfth district, E. A. Morse, R.
Thirteenth district, J. Simpkins, R.

Yesterday's elections, joined with those previously held in Maine and Vermont, show that the New England delegation in the Fifty-fourth congress will be as follows:

Maine—First district, Thomas B. Reed, R.; Second district, Nelson Dingley, R.; Third district, Seth L. Milligan, R.; Fourth district, Charles A. Boutelle, R.

New Hampshire—First district, Cyrus A. Sulloway, R.; Second district, Henry M. Baker, R.

Vermont—First district, Henry Powers, R.; Second district, William W. Grout, R.

Rhode Island—First district, Melville Bull, R.; Second district, Warren O. Arnold, R.

The general demoralization of telegraph lines in this state makes it practically impossible to secure full returns from the different senatorial and legislative districts. Figures indicate the election of the following senators and representatives to the Massachusetts general court:

RESULT OF LOCAL CONTESTS.

HOW DEMOCRATS WERE SLAUGHTERED AT THE POLLS.

Knox and Foss Elected Over Fifield and Brady—Greenhalge Carries the City by a Large Plurality—The French Vote Swells Republican Totals—Populist Vote Larger Than Expected.

Whew!!!

It was a political hurricane the worst since McKinley was routed in 1890.

It was a result of the recent panic together with the wrangling and dissensions carried on by the democratic party.

It was a uniform and universal democratic slump that swept almost the entire country and of course took in our own city burying Senator Brady, Hon. George W. Fifield and every other candidate on the ticket with the exception of our representatives in the impregnable democratic strongholds.

It was a combination of the most heterogeneous elements against the democracy.

The A. P. A. may claim the victory if it will but the entire A. P. A. vote added to that of some democratic candidates would hardly save them from defeat.

To begin with the head of the ticket, Gov. Greenhalge carried the city by 1198 in a total of 12,736. Wolcott by a plurality of 133, Shapleigh 1141.

Brady was defeated by a plurality of 338 and Connolly, the populist, received 256 votes.

Fifield was beaten by 76 votes in this city.

A couple of liquor dealers are known to have worked against Brady but their influence was not sufficient to cause his defeat.

There were other defections but none sufficient to produce such a complete overthrow.

Representatives Hoban of Ward Six, O'Connor of Ward Three and Rourke of Ward One offer the only consolation to the local democracy.

Ward Five has gone over to the republican column, giving Greenhalge 1102, Russell 867, Foss 1047, Brady 809.

Precincts 4 and 5 of Ward Three went republican, showing a complete overthrow which is claimed as an A. P. A. advance, although there is no evidence that it is entirely due to that cause.

It was announced that the A. P. A. was to cut Gov. Greenhalge but that was all changed and they supported him loyally. But they opposed Lieut.-Gov. Wolcott by every means in their power, casting their votes for the prohibition candidate instead as a punishment for his having voted for a Catholic for the state board of education.

The extent of this opposition will be seen in the difference between the vote for governor and lieutenant governor on the prohibition ticket.

Richardson for governor received 137 votes in this city and Shapleigh the candidate for lieutenant governor 1141 showing a difference of 1004 votes which is the A. P. A. voting strength as nearly as it can be calculated from the returns in this city.

Bill Hayes does not seem to have suffered from the A. P. A. opposition although he received 91 votes less than Bennett and 53 less than Roper.

Other deductions may be made from a fuller examination of the returns but enough is here indicated to show the extent of the republican sweep. The returns are given below:

Scenes at City Hall.

City hall was the headquarters for representatives of all classes last night. The official returns were received at the city clerk's office and were read aloud to the anxious voters, who commenced to gather early, as it was expected that the results would come in early, owing to the addition of the eleven extra precincts. Chairman Pearson of the democratic city committee was there and so was his lieutenant, Secretary Sullivan. Mr. Pearson was hopeful during the early part of the evening while Mr. Sullivan seemed to read the handwriting at a glance. Lawyer Owens dropped in "for a few minutes," as he said, but he managed to stay till the last gun was fired.

At 6.45 the first returns came in. They were from precinct 2, Ward One, and the crowd commenced to figure. It looked rosy for democratic success they said, and the word was passed along. The reporters sat around tables in Clerk Dowd's office and took the returns as they came in.

About 7.30, the precinct officers with the ballot boxes began to arrive at city hall one after the other, and by nine o'clock there were nine precincts heard from. The crowd swelled, and the corridors commenced to fill up rapidly. Candidates Rourke, O'Connor and Hoban were quite attentive to the figures read out by the clerk, and "Tommy" Hoban was especially anxious. "Charlie" Riley had a bet with James Gookin, that Hoban would win by 200 or over.

When the returns showed that Hoban had about 280 votes to spare "Charlie" was tickled and said he would sport a new hat next Sunday. Dr. Kelley, candidate for school committee in the third ward was very much interested in the figures as they were read.

License Commissioner Smith and his clerk, James Miskella were on hand during the evening. The report was circulated that Hill was beaten by 50,000 and New York city went republican. "Well, it isn't Hill's defeat, it is the defeat of Cleveland" said one of Hill's ardent admirers.

While all this was going on the mayor and aldermen were in session upstairs and incidentally talked on the vote of the day. The republican aldermen admitted that Fifield would carry the city by 500, but were just as certain that Brady would not be in it.

A SUN reporter showed Mayor Pickman some figures for Ward Four. When the mayor read precinct 4, he said; "It was that district that assured my election, last year."

At 9 o'clock it dawned upon the lookers on, that Brady was beaten and then it was a question of Foss' majority. Ward Six complete returns showed a net loss of 85 for Brady, and Ward Five reported a net loss of 298.

This is where the French vote and some liquor dealers got in their work.

Twenty-eight precincts were in at 10 o'clock and they showed great republican gains.

Fred Rourke was delighted with his vote in Ward One and felt flattered at the size of his majority.

"Joe" O'Connor said he was not in the least troubled. "Why should you, your fight is over," replied Councilman Gormley.

Telephone messages came in fast. It was quite evident that Mr. O'Connor had admirers among the gentler sex, who were working the telephone.

The Franklin club got a connection with city hall and were especially anxious for the result of the representative contests in Wards Four and Five.

"Salmagundi," the democratic nominee for councillor, looked as unconcernedly as though nothing happened. The odor of good and bad cigars, cigarettes and pipes permeated the room.

During the wait for precinct 4 Ward 3, the last precinct in the city to be heard from the politicians exchanged stories and summed up the causes of defeat. At 11.15 the missing precinct was brought in.

It showed a democratic majority but not sufficient to off-set the terrible republican gain. The result was read, Greenhalge, Knox, Foss and all the rest of them had carried the city and the crowd went home vowing they would vote "no license."

Evening at the Clubs.

Senator Brady spent the evening at the Big 12 rooms, where he received the returns that told him of his defeat. But he was not disheartened. Foss had won with the aid of certain liquor dealers and the boys promised to return the favor with interest in December. Brady fought a good fight but the odds were against him.

Franklin Club

It was a jolly crowd that assembled in the Franklin club rooms and listened to the grand tales of triumph. Foss was cordially greeted and the members said it was a throw down for Col. Bennett. But the colonel does not die easy. He loses only to win.

At the Elks.

The Elks held a social session and heard the story of the votes. The crowd was divided. Some were glad, some were sad, But the defeat did not interfere with the sociability of the occasion. It was a great night for the Elks.

The returns were read at the Opera house and Music hall.

WANTS HIS WIFE.

Manchester Man Who Has Lost His Running Mate and Thinks She is Here.

Lawrence A. Cassidy of Manchester is in search of his wife who, he claims, has eloped and has been in Lowell. To Marshal Eaton of Nashua he said that when on the train at Lowell last week his sister-in-law informed him that his wife had died two weeks ago. She had been away from home but he he had not heard of her illness and the announcement of her death was too startling to be believed at once. The sister-in-law who lives in Lawrence told him his wife had been buried in Nashua. He went there and visited the undertakers and the city clerk but could find no evidence of her demise and now he believes she has eloped with his brother, Michael Cassidy, and what the sister-in-law says is a falsehood to keep him off their track. Cassidy has traced them through Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell and Manchester, but they have eluded him every time. Mrs. Cassidy has one child, a boy, with her.

DOES THE Rev. Mr. Montgomery feel "put out?"

GOV. GREENHALGE has promised to unearth, if possible, the evils of democratic rule in this state. Are the evils of republican rule to be overlooked?

THE MILITARY forces brought into requisition by the federal election law were not in evidence yesterday. The people were not scared away from the polls by an array of armed men.

THE MAIL takes Mr. Farley to task for speaking at a democratic rally on Sunday. How about the French rally held in Jackson hall last Sunday. The holding of the rally was not half so bad as the deceptive manner in which it was called.

It is well that war has been declared on cattle in Brockton that are afflicted with tuberculosis. The disease must be stamped out if the drinkers of milk are to have their apprehension quieted—Brockton Enprise.

Will Milk Inspector Allen say whether there is any tuberculosis in cattle around Lowell?

THE EXTENSION of the civil service rules to cover custom house officials is a step in the right direction. When faithful officials, appointed by proper methods, prove to be efficient servants of the government, there is no reason why they should be removed so long as they perform their duties satisfactorily.

The Central Labor union reports show general improvement in local textile industries, with a dulness in the mechanical trades. The latter is nothing unusual at this season of the year, when building operations are generally suspending in anticipation of the appaoach of winter.—Lawrence Tribune.

What reports does the Lowell Central Labor union give on these points? Perhaps our union is too much interested in its populistic candidates.

IT SEEMS that the English people or at least a section of them are determined to scare the house of lords. A few dynamite explosions would intimidate their lordships and probably induce them to bear reason. The proposal of Lord Roseberry to submit the matter to the people is a very reasonable one and if rejected will enrage the people against the lords and cause the most determined movement that ever beset the hereditary stronghold of the lords.

THE SEIZURE officers made several raids yesterday. Was that done for effect? They did not make any raid in a certain part of Ward Five, although it is stated that one speak easy, if not more, has been in full blast there for several months past. Was the fact that an election was approaching and that votes were needed, sufficient incentive to let the speak easies run until after election day. It makes some difference perhaps who runs the speak easy and how the proprietor votes.

THE ELECTION SWEEP.

The election is over and the republicans have scored a triumph.

It was a national victory that will have far reaching effects.

That Massachusetts has gone strongly republican is only what was expected but the overturn in New York city and state is a universal surprise. Not even the republicans themselves anticipated such a victory. Senator Hill made a gallant fight, but the times were against him.

The democratic party has had to suffer for the panic which was precipitated by republican legislation.

The calamity howling has had its effect and the republican party will control the next congressional house.

Congressman Wilson went down in the cataclysm, and Pennsylvania gave a sweeping plurality for the republican candidates on account of the intent of the democratic party to put coal and iron on the free list.

The victory for the republicans is not greater, however, than was that of the democrats when McKinley and his adherents went down in defeat in 1890.

McKinley, Reed and Morton will now be the heroes of the hour in republican politics.

The result will check the progress of tariff reform by the democratic party but the new tariff law is nevertheless assured a fair trial. However disagreeable the result of yesterday's election, it is the verdict of the people and should be accepted with patriotic submission.

The defeat of Fifield and Brady is but our share of the general slump and cannot be attributed to the opposition of any clique or combination.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

The republican papers are shouting for municipal reform and the democratic press are also in favor of such reform. Democrats want a lower tax rate and less extravagance. If democrats were in control of the government they would never blame republicans with responsibility for their acts.

Every department of the city government is at present in charge of committees, each of which has a republican majority, yet republicans claim that their opponents are responsible for the high tax rate.

Municipal reform has been well started in Haverhill by the conviction of four aldermen for official corruption. They are all republicans except one, Mr. Ham. Let the good work to go on.

THE VERDICT in the Haverhill boodle case is pronounced a just one by all friends of justice. When men holding public office so far forget their duty and the interests of the public in the management of the liquor traffic they should be punished. The people of other cities would be glad to have another District Attorney Moody who would bring offending aldermen to justice. It seems that in many cities the aldermen took advantage of their last chance to salt the liquor dealers.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S patriotism would not have suffered if he had gone to the polls and voted like any other good citizen of the United States.

An Interested Spectator.

Harrison—Of course I'm not in the game, but just let either of those boys drop that ball!—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Revival of Industry.

Within less than two months after the Wilson-senate tariff bill went into force the inspirational effect upon industry of all kinds had become electrical, says the Chicago Times. Never in its history have the recuperative powers of this country been manifested in such degree as in the revival of industry which has gone on all over the country and representing all lines of business since Sept. 1. The Republican press even is compelled to acknowledge the fact. The Detroit Journal, the organ of the ultra protection element of Michigan Republicanism, calls upon the calamity howlers to "quit croaking," because the evidence of restored prosperity and growing confidence is on every hand apparent, and the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, another dyed in the wool organ of protection, has been making an investigation of industrial conditions in Indiana which compels its frank admission of the wonderful change already felt in that state.

There is nothing local about the influence of the new tariff law. Every section of the country feels the impulse of its beneficent provisions, and from the woolen manufacturers of New England and the live stock growers on the Mexican border come the same reports of better times at hand.

The Clover Is Sprouting.

Mr. Harrison twits the Democrats with having failed to keep their promise that the country should be "in clover." The trouble with the ex-president is that he insists on the Democracy furnishing a crop of four leaf clover, while he and his party have been doing their worst to sow tares in the field by night. Yet, in spite of them, the clover of better times is sprouting finely.—Philadelphia Record.

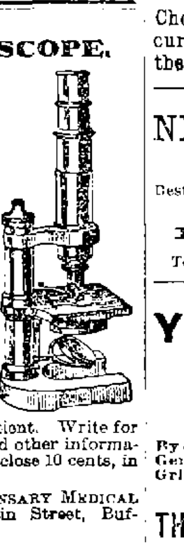
They Had Reason to Be Scared.

Benjamin Harrison says the cause of the hard times was the fact that people got scared. They had good reason to be scared at the policy of the party which Mr. Harrison represents. If they had not been scared, they would not have overthrown it and consequently would not be witnessing a revival of business prosperity.—St. Paul Morning Call.

Harrison's Boom Is Away Off.

Mr. Harrison more ably misrepresents the causes of the now disappearing business depression than Mr. McKinley does, but the Harrison boom is still away back yonder.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE MICROSCOPE.



A careful microscopical examination and chemical analysis of the urine, is a valuable aid in determining the nature of many chronic diseases, particularly those of the nervous system, blood, liver, kidneys, and bladder. These aids make it possible to treat such diseases successfully at a distance, without personal examination of the patient. Thus Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, Gravel, and other Diseases of the Urinary Organs are successfully treated; Nervous Debility, Exhaustion, Dropsy, Liver Disease, and many other Chronic Maladies are cured without seeing the patient. How Serious Trouble Was Averted.

When Mr. Benjamin Billiwink looked at the change he had in his pocket after getting off the North Side street car that brought him down town yesterday morning, he found that the conductor had passed a plugged 5 cent piece on him.

Mr. Billiwink did not care for the value of the coin, but he had the average American's dislike to being overreached, and he put that plugged coin back in his pocket and bided his time.

In the evening he climbed aboard a north bound street car, and when the conductor came round Mr. Billiwink handed him that identical 5 cent piece.

The conductor looked at it and handed it back.

"I can't take it," he said. "It's plugged."

"Yes," replied Mr. Billiwink. "I know it. It's plugged. But you'll take it."

"I reckon not. If I turn in that plugged nickel, I'll have to make it good out of my own pocket, and I can't afford it. You give me good money, or I can't carry you."

Then Mr. Billiwink rose up in his wrath.

"Yes, you will," he snorted, "and you'll take that nickel too. Look here! I got that from Conductor No. 437 on this line this very morning. Here's the rest of the change, just as he gave it to me."

"I can't help that. I've got my orders, and"—

"You've got orders not to take plugged nickels, but you're allowed to pay 'em out!" vociferated Mr. Billiwink, regardless of the sensation he was creating in the crowded car. "If the company gives out a plugged nickel, they ought to take it back, and if they pass one on me they've got to take it back, by ginger! That's all there is to it. Now, you can take this or nothing. It's all you'll get."

Mr. Billiwink was determined not to be put off that car without a fight, and he braced himself for the coming shock.

"Well," said the conductor after reflecting a moment, "I can't take that piece of money, but I guess you haven't got very far to ride, and you can ride without paying anything. You'll get even that way. Will that be satisfactory?"

Mr. Billiwink wilted.

"Thunder!" he said. "If you're not going to kick harder than that, I'll give you a good nickel."

Which he did—and got off at the next crossing.—Chicago Tribune.

Women Must Sleep.

If they only could sleep eight hours every night and one hour every day—

Their freshness and beauty would continue to the end.

Years would be added to their lives. All derangements of the uterus or womb, ovarian or kidney troubles, uterus tumors, spinal weakness, irregularity, indigestion, exhaustion, or "displacement," drives the nerves wild with excitement, and sleep is impossible.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy. It has saved thousands, and will save you. It strengthens the womb, removes all pain, and you sleep like a child.

For kidney troubles in either sex it is unequalled.

SELECTION OF WALL PAPER AND COLOR FOR WOOD WORK.

Ideas On the Different Kinds of Wall, Frieze and Ceiling Papers—The Tyrant Potato—Labor Saving Devices—Favorite Cloths and Colors.

"I have no sympathy with the common idea that you decrease the apparent height of your room by deep friezes. Suppose you do suffer from the optical delusion of losing six inches. Is there not a sense of quaintness and comfort in a room that is low? At any rate, we all feel how pleasant and cozy are the old farmhouses with low timbered ceilings. This sense of snugness is well illustrated at the chateau of Blois, where the timbered ceilings of the rooms are comparatively low and are colored a sea green blue, to which is superadded an abundance of colored and stenciled ornament," says a writer in The Decorator and Furnisher, the source of the following:

All papers used in staircases and other apartments where the light is defective should have their ornament bold and strong, delicate combinations of tones being reserved for rooms well lighted. There is a tradition that all ceilings should be light in scale. Well, many should be, but they may be successful in deeper and richer tones.

Remember the blue of a summer sky sometimes as a suggestion. Gold on ordinary papers, when perfectly flat, is not always pleasant. The true glory of gold refuses to express itself except on undulating surfaces, where its metallic luster is developed.

In coloring the surrounding woodwork of rooms it is a comparatively safe rule to select a tint from some section of the ornament in the wall paper. In selecting wall, frieze and ceiling papers it is well that the wall paper should be the darkest in tone, the others ascending in the scale of light and each having the same tints of color running through, but in varying degrees. This is recommended as avoiding an effect of disturbed harmony, but possessing a color instinct daring arrangements of contrasts may be accomplished with success.

It is an error to think that on a ground of strong color our pictures suffer. If we take care that our areas of color are flat and contain some sense of broad unity in the whole scheme, this will not occur. These backgrounds may be as strong as you like if the parts are well balanced and each color of pretty near the same depth of tone. Gold or black picture frames are a sufficient separation.

The old Venetians reveled in the fullness of tones. Why should we not follow their example and take suggestions from their source of inspiration, which was the barbaric splendor of eastern color? We all recognize and admire the redundant richness of color as found in Persian fabrics, Japanese lacquers and Moresque tiles. If this wealth and brilliancy is a delight in sunnier lands, it should be doubly welcome to us, where the need of the joys of color are all the greater.

In a delightful nursery frieze the repeat consists of two panels, each containing two attractive children whispering secrets to one another. It is certainly a wide awake idea for the delectation of the rising generation.

The Tyrant Potato.

"Personally I should not care if I never saw another Irish potato," said I to a friend. "And nobody in my family cares particularly for them, yet somehow, like every other housekeeper, I feel obliged to keep them on hand and have them in one shape or another upon the dinner table every day."

"Your servants probably could not support existence without them?"

"On the contrary, I believe they prefer almost any other vegetable. Cold potatoes are invariably among the left overs."

After which colloquy I bought a peck and ordered them to be stored in the cellar for family consumption, writes Marion Harland in Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. Rorer declares the potato to be neither wholesome nor elegant. I add to these disqualifications for the place of universal favorite unpalatableness per se. When unripe, it is like chewing gum to the teeth and hot lead to the stomach. Medical authorities warn the public of the middle states against eating new potatoes before the Fourth of July at the earliest. Until they boil mealily they clog and irritate digestive canals. Yet at this stage of an arrogant career they are more in demand and command higher prices than at any other.

Bread is the housewife's strong staff, and butter her beautiful rod of sovereignty, yet domestic statistics prove that in the great middle class there are not a few households in which the annual supply of potatoes costs as much as the flour or the butter purchased in the same time.

Labor Saving Devices.

A New York woman is said to have invented a darning machine, a miniature loom, which will darn any hole 2½ by 5 inches or less, and do it so neatly that no rough edges will remain.

A new device is a cake beater, for which it is claimed that it will mix any kind of cake from griddle cake to the finest fancy confection in one minute. Besides the saving of time and labor over the old spoon process it does not leave one with a tired back and arm and a lot of dishes and spoons to clean. In appearance it is somewhat like a flour sifter.

Favorite Cloths and Colors.

A pale mastic color in cloth finds favor trimmed with beaver, and also with pinked out designs in the same cloth laid over a darker velvet. This cut out cloth, which hitherto has only been used for mantles, is likely to be much worn during the winter on gowns, and deep points treated in this way are placed on the outside of the arm from the shoulder toward the elbow. Dominant colors this winter will be green and brown. Black and white find general appreciation, such as black and white narrow striped velvet, made up for evening with an under bodice of yellow satin and cerise rosettes at the neck, a daring mixture of color.

When the common earthworm is cut in two, to the tail there grows a head and to the head there grows a tail, and two animals are formed. As the wound heals a small white button is formed, which afterward develops into rings and a perfect extremity.

"Lecturettes" is the latest addition to our language. It comes from the land of "lady mayoresses and lady paintresses," and seems to mean an informal talk—sort of froth of a lecture perhaps.

THE DAINTY PARISIENNE.

A Creature Gifted With All the Superficial Graces Which Charm Men.

"The Parisiennes are born comedians," said an author of the last century, and this is the description he gives of a true Parisienne: To be or to become a Parisienne a woman must be a gormand, capricious, ambitious and a coquette. She begins to live only toward evening. At 12 she is at her zenith. She knows nothing, not even how to make a cup of tea, but she serves her sickly beverage with so much grace and her Sevres cups are so transparent and so exquisite that you love it and love her.

When the Parisienne gives a dinner party, she thinks of the flowers and the fruit and leaves the rest to her cook, so sure is she to mend a bad dish with a bon mot. Her beauty, which is problematic and has nothing to do with the type preferred by the sculptor, lasts her a quarter of a century, this because the beauty of the Parisienne is the beaute du diable, and the devil never gets old. She knows how to sit, to get up, to kneel, how to do everything, for she never forgets her role and is always on the stage. She has studied herself in all positions, full face, side face and three-quarter face, and she knows what she can do without losing an inch of her charm and when to stop in time.

If she has a wisp of hair moving about, or dangling on her forehead, or sticking up above her coils, do not say, "I beg your pardon, madame, your hair is out of order," for this wisp has been studied and arranged, and where it is and how it dangles it is meant to be and to dangle. On her face is the suggestion of all beauties, but none is perfect. She reflects the white snow of the north and the sun rays of the south. She has the quiet eye of the American and the creamy look of the Russian. She is clean and dainty like the English, as lively as a gypsy of Seville or a Florentine signora. All is hers, wit, charm, artistic coquetry, easiness of manners, kindness and mischievousness. Either as a duchess, milliner, actress, circus rider, tamer of beasts or of men, she is always the Parisienne and always has been, a creature stamped at her birth by an angel and by a devil, both of them having left their seal on her.

SOURCE OF THE MISSOURI.

Six Considerable Rivers Joined Together Form Its Actual Head.

The actual head of the Missouri river, or what should be known as such had it been intelligently named, is De Lacy's or Shoshone lake, in the National park. This lake, a considerable body of water, is the source of the Madison river and forms with the river the drainage outlet for most of the waters of that portion of the National park. The Gallatin, or left source of the Missouri, is formed by two streams, the East and West Gallatin, which unite about a mile above its junction with the Missouri. The Madison and Gallatin are both somewhat smaller than the Jefferson.

Had Lewis and Clark ascended the Madison instead of the Jefferson, which, being the larger stream, they naturally mistook for the continuation of the Missouri, they would have discovered the famous geysers in Firehole basin, Shoshone lake and all the country which is now incorporated within the limits of the National park. The Big Hole and the Beaverhead rivers flow into the Jefferson at Twin Bridges, a few miles from the confluence of the Jefferson with the Missouri, so that in reality there are six considerable rivers, all joining one another within a radius of a few miles, which unite to form the longest river in the world, measured from the gulf to the Rocky mountains.—Bozeman Chronicle.

Face to Face With Tigers.

Among Sir Hope Grant's notes of his life in India are two brief accounts of close encounters with tigers, though Sir Hope himself does not figure in either adventure. Major Calinet was out shooting when he came suddenly face to face with a tiger. Just as he was firing the howdah gave way, and he fell almost into the animal's mouth.

The tiger seized him by the thigh and carried him off. While in this situation he recollected that he had a brace of pistols in his pocket. He managed to draw one and snapped it at the beast's head, but it missed fire.

Still retaining his presence of mind, he pulled out the other and fired. The tiger bounded on a few yards and then dropped dead.

Calinet told me of this himself. He was very badly wounded and is still dreadfully lame.

Mr. Young of the civil service heard that a tiger had forced his way into a native hut and was holding it against its human owner. Mr. Young mounted the roof and effected an entrance.

The tiger charged. He fired both barrels and turned to get his second gun from his attendant, but the fellow had bolted.

The tiger was close up, and Mr. Young, in despair, lifted the gun with both hands in front of his head. The beast sprang, seized the barrel in his mouth and then dropped dead. I saw the gun dented with the tiger's teeth.

A Reportorial Tragedy.

The susceptible and diffident reporter had called on the beautiful young actress to interview her on the elevation of the stage. He had sent up his card and was awaiting her in the reception room.

When she entered, he sat near a window, which, while it blinded her so that she could not see him, poured over her a flood of light and brought out in glorious radiance her entrancing beauty.

For an instant he sat as if spellbound, and then, rising awkwardly and stammering, he came toward her.

As he drew near her eyes became fixed on him with a horrified stare, and with a fearful shriek she turned and fled from the room.

He had lost his head completely, and she had not yet become accustomed to that sort of thing.—Detroit Free Press.

General Francis Nash of Revolutionary army gave a name to Nashville. It was first called Nashborough, which was objected to on account of being hard to spell. Nashton was suggested, but Nashville finally accepted in 1784.

The Columbia river was named after the Boston ship Columbia by her captain, Robert Gray, in 1788. The Spaniards called the stream Rio de St. Roque.

CURING A SORE THROAT.

A Remedy That Acted Promptly and Was Singularly Successful.

A good story is told in Stageland of a Berlin prima donna who lived in the time of Frederick the Great. Whenever anything or anybody displeased her, she had a habit of suddenly becoming too hoarse to sing. One day an opera in her repertory was to be performed, and the king was expected to be present.

At the appointed hour the manager came forward and announced that, owing to a sore throat, Mlle. So-and-so was unable to appear. The people were preparing to leave the house, but the king rose and commanded them to keep their seats. A few moments afterward an officer and four dragoons entered the capricious lady's room.

"Mademoiselle," said the officer, "the king inquires after your health."

"The king is very good," she said. "I have a sore throat."

"His majesty is aware of the fact and has charged me to take you to the military hospital to be cured."

Mademoiselle turned very pale, suggested that they were jesting, but was told that Prussian officers never indulged in such a thing. Soon she found herself in a coach with four men.

"I am a little better now," she faltered, "and I will try to sing."

"Back to the theater," said the officer to the coachman.

Mademoiselle began to think she had yielded too easily.

"I shall not be able to sing at my best," she interposed.

"I think you will," was the sententious reply.

"And why?"

"Because two dragoons in attendance behind the scenes have orders to carry you off to the military hospital at the least cough."

Never, it was said, did the prima donna sing better.

"Milked One Whole Cow."

At a pleasant home in Covington one evening a happy company were gathered. The host and hostess had just returned from a trip to Mackinac, and the young wife was relating to her guests some of the incidents of the journey.

"Oh, I learned so many things while we were gone!" said she, and her pretty face was lighted with the most becoming animation as she went on breathlessly:

"We stopped one day at the state institution for the deaf and dumb in Michigan, and what do you think the steward told us? Why, he said they sift a barrel of flour for every meal there."

"A barrel of flour!" said a young lady who was listening.

"Yes," said the hostess triumphantly, "for every meal. And how many potatoes do you suppose they peel for dinner? Guess."

Nobody dared.

"Ten bushels. Just think of it! And they use three barrels of cabbage, and when they have watermelon it takes just 260 to go round. But listen. That isn't all. They seed 175 pounds of raisins for the Sunday cake, and they put 21 bushels of apples in the pies. Don't they, Harry?"

Harry was the husband and the companion in this remarkable voyage of discovery. He turned to his wife fondly and then drawled out the meanest speech of his married life:

"Yes, my dear, not only that, but they milk one whole cow every day."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Nick Young's Fault.

Recently there was a very happy complement of passengers going from Baltimore to Boston with Captain Howes of the Merchants and Miners' line. The captain, by the way, is one of the best men that ever trod a quarter deck to make a trip with. Among the passengers was Nick Young of baseball fame. This and the fact that Captain Howes is an ardent admirer of the game gave rise to a great deal of baseball talk, which was heard by everybody, including the fussy old lady who talks to every person on board and makes herself generally disagreeable. Sunday afternoon she wanted to have a prayer meeting and went about arranging for a leader and a choir. Coming up behind two young men, she asked them if they sang.

"Well," replied one, "we are not troubadours at singing, but we sometimes make a bluff at it."

"Bluff, sir, bluff! Is that a term you use in baseball?" haughtily inquired the old lady as she marched off. And it was all owing to Nick Young and the baseball talk he caused.—Washington Star.

A Peculiar Conscience.

A gentleman in Frankfort who was robbed of 100 marks received the following letter:

"Honored sir, I have stolen you money. Now my conscience is beginning to trouble me, and I therefore inclose you herewith a 20 mark note. Next time I suffer any more qualms of conscience I will make you a further remittance."

It is something new to hear of pangs of conscience by installments.—Magdeburger Zeitung.

Paradises For Servants.

Typical servants' paradises are such houses as those of Mr. Alfred Rothschild, in Seamore place, and of Mrs. Montefiore, in Great Stanhope street. The former has been known to send a valued servant to the continent to recruit after an illness, paying all expenses, while at the country house of the latter, Worth Park, Sussex, the astonished guests are shown ballroom, library and billiard room for the exclusive use of servants.—London Standard.

In a wild state the elephant is a nocturnal animal. When domesticated, his size and dark color make him a great sufferer from the heat. To relieve himself he draws water from his stomach by means of his trunk and squirts it over his body.

Michilimackinac is an Indian word meaning great turtle. The Michigan city of this name is situated at a place where, it is said, there once was a large rock whose outline bore some resemblance to that of a turtle.

West Virginia has 16,000 square miles of coalfields and produces annually 5,000,000 tons.

As True as Gospel.

A married man wails thus:

"Nothing maddens me more than to attempt to read the paper to my wife.

"I'll sit down and begin—it's always something interesting—and she'll be seated for a minute or two. Then she'll rise and say:

"'Go right ahead, dear. I can hear every word.'

"Then she'll prance into the next room and tinkle and tinkle with things on the mantel or the bureau while I raise my voice and have to roar out some paragraph that loses all its sense by that means.

"Then she'll disappear again, and I'll hear her voice come out in muffled tones from the clothes closet:

"'Wait a minute, dear; I'll be back.'

"But I don't wait.

"I put on my hat and go down town and read to myself all the way."—New York Recorder.

FROM OUR 5 O'CLOCK EDITION Of Yesterday.

AN A. P. A. RIOT

Kansas City Now Patrolled By Militia.

GOV. STONE WAS FOREWARNED AND FOREARMED.

Bloodshed Momentarily Expected From the Fights.

By Associated Press to THE SUN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—A despatch from Kansas City states that the order issued by Gov. Stone, yesterday, to put the 3d Regiment under arms was timely, for today the city is on verge of a riot by reason of collision of the A. P. A. and the rougher Catholic element.

In all sections of the city there were short fights and the military was to be sent in the aid of the police this afternoon in anticipation of more serious conflicts and possibly blood shed.

In several precincts the mob took possession of the voting places and ejected the officers.

BAD GIRLS THESE.

One of Them Had an Escapade in this City Recently.

The Providence police found two young girls in short dresses in a Fountain street establishment Monday and placed them under arrest. They gave their names as Alice Skain, aged 15, and Mary Harney, aged 16, both of Fall River, which was probably correct as the local police know two such persons, says the Fall River Globe.

The fact that they wore short dresses would seem to indicate that they were unsophisticated, but the record is otherwise. Last summer this pair was arrested for lodging under the bleachers at the Pawtucket Baseball grounds three nights in the week. They were returned home and the Skain girl next attracted attention by getting stage struck and pawning her rings for money to follow a variety show to Lowell.

She was ejected from a theatrical boarding house there, for non payment of board, and promptly arrested. Inspector Shea escorted her back to this city, where she was arraigned before Judge McDonough for stubborness. She promised the judge that she would never do it again. Marshal Fleet said later, that he noticed a bland smile on Alice's face at the time she made the promise. The local authorities are not responsible for the arrest in Providence.

BIG LIQUOR RAID.

In Wellman Block Opposite THE SUN Office This Noon.

The liquor inspectors made a big raid at 12.10 p. m. in Wellman block. It is said that Tom Devitt owned the liquor seized as he was there at the time of the raid.

The raid was nicely planned and when the patrol was rung up by the officer on the beat, Inspector Goodwin was in the building. Then came Inspector Donaldson, Officer Ryder, Chief Davis and Capt. Moffatt. In a back room on the first floor was a sideboard and sitting against it was a chap drinking a bottle of beer.

Another fellow in a long ulster was in the room also. In a big closet among sundry articles were piled up about 16 cases of lager and several jugs.

While the inspectors were getting into the room several men got out on the fire escape on the Bridge street side, and among them were several well known characters.

At the station house it was stated that the owner of the liquor was not known.

DEATHS.

By Associated Press to THE SUN.

The list of candidates recommended is that on the Republican ticket, except that for Lieutenant-Governor and for senator in the 3d Essex district; the Prohibition candidates are substituted.

Facts About Ballots.

Enough ballots have been printed for today's elections to paper half the globe, in Brooklyn alone, nearly 13 millions being needed. In this incident the cumbrousness of the New York ballot is shown, for in Brooklyn the voter received 19 separate ballots from the election clerk. The total issue of ballots weighed 20 tons.

In New York city 19 millions of ballots were needed.

MR MONTGOMERY

Tells About His Trouble at the Rally.

HE WAS THERE ON A PERSONAL INVITATION.

Explains How He Was "Insulted" By Mr. Howe.

Rev. Hugh Montgomery in an interview today speaks his mind in regard to the refusal of F. W. Howe to let him sit on the platform at last night's rally, as follows:

"I went to Huntington hall, last night, for two purposes. The first was to greet my friend, Senator Hoar, the second purpose was to discredit the stories afloat that I was opposed to Gov. Greenhalge. It was said that Gov. Greenhalge paid for the use of Huntington hall for a Catholic society of Lowell, and I wished to show by my presence that I did not care anything about such a story. In the reception room I was invited by several prominent republicans to take a seat upon the platform. At the entrance to the platform I was stopped by Mr. Howe. He asked me if I had a card of admission. I told him I was there by personal invitation of Jacob Rogers. He refused to admit me, although several republicans protested against his action. I then left the hall. I do not blame the republican city committee, but Mr. Howe. I have sat upon the platform at republican rallies in Huntington hall, and no card of admission was ever demanded of me."

A SURPLUS OF HELP.

Is Reported From Fall River on Account of the Employment of Knobsticks.

The secretaries of the labor unions and other persons in close contact with the operatives of Fall River report a great surplus of help in that city. The strike and its attending excitement attracted a great many operatives from other New England cotton centres.

While the weavers were on strike, and more especially in the last two weeks of their troubles, many of these floaters went into the mills and took the places of those who were out for a principle. After the strike was declared off the overseers refused to give the old operatives the places that had been taken.

In consequence of this condition there are many idle operatives in all parts of the town and reports of victimizing are very frequent and pressing. In the southern part of the city these reports are causing much annoyance to the operatives who are many weeks behind in their bills.

This excuse of "having been victimized" is true to some extent, but men of experience say that much of the help that went in as "knobsticks" is incompetent and slovenly, and in a short time the overseers will be glad to give some of the old operatives the places from which they have been excluded.

A Side Issue.

In Worcester the citizens will vote on the question as to whether they will have minority representation in the board of aldermen. This question was voted on last year and decided in the affirmative. The republicans, who now control the entire board, came to the state house last winter and said the citizens of Worcester did not vote intelligently on the question; that many voted for minority representation who thought they were voting the other way. The legislature accepted this story as true and voted to give the people of Worcester another opportunity to pass upon the subject.

Work of Police Today.

Patrick E. Philips and Frank Cotter were arrested this morning by Inspectors Laflamme and Allen for larceny. They entered houses on Prince street, the Merrimack corporation and on Bridge street and stole it is alleged, a coat valued at $15, shoes $2 and a hat $3 the property of Edward M. Johnson, a coat valued at $10, coat $5, and a vest $2 the property of Charles Welcome and a clock belonging to a Mrs. Carter. The property was recovered.

Votes are Worth $4.

No matter how the election goes today votes for a barrel of best Haxall flour at F. M. Barney & Co.'s, are worth $4 each and each voter will have the barrel sent home. The flour market been cornered so that the firm was able to give its customers the benefit of low prices. As long as the flour holds out the popular election at $4 a head continues.

Half Holiday Allowed.

Mayor Mathews of Boston has sent out the following letter to the different departments:

Gentlemen—You are hereby directed to allow all men in the employ of the city half-holidays on election days. Nov. 6, 1894, and Dec. 11, 1894, without loss of pay, as part compensation for their services.

Will Send Delegates.

Canton Pawtucket will send delegates to the Patriarch Militant council which will meet in Springfield, Jan. 10th, 1895, in Odd Fellows' hall, Court square. C. H. Holden, the department commander of the state, is the president, and Augustus A. Wood, of New Bedford, is the secretary. Thirteen cantons will be represented, with a membership of over 2000.

THE RIGHT VERSION

Of the Montgomery Incident at Huntington Hall, Monday Night.

One of the most prominent republicans in the councils of the city committee says this is the right version of the Montgomery incident, Monday night: Mr. Howe asked Mr. Montgomery at the ante-room if he had an invitation to sit on the stage. Mr. Montgomery said he had and Mr. Howe said "all right, go ahead" but Mr. Montgomery turned the other way. He says that Mr. Montgomery's statement is not right, and no insult was given to the clergyman by Mr. Howe.

GEN. O. O. HOWARD

Retires From Service After a Brilliant Career.

MADE HIS REPUTATION AS AN INDIAN FIGHTER.

He Believed in Christianizing Not Murdering Redskins.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Tonight at 12 o'clock Major-General Oliver Otis Howard, "the Christian hero," having reached the statutory age limit, will retire from the United States army to private life. There will be many changes in the army this year, but the withdrawal of General Howard from active duty is the most important, from the fact that he outranks all officers except Major General John M. Schofield, and his only equal is Major General Nelson A. Miles, of the department of the Missouri, who is spoken of as the successor of General Howard. The retirement of General Howard will cause a vacancy in the grade of major general, to which Brigadier General Thomas H. Ruger of the department of the Pacific, may succeed if his claim is respected.

General Howard's Record.

Oliver O. Howard was admitted as a cadet in the United States military academy at West Point on Sept. 1, 1850, and graduated on July 1, 1854. He was stationed at Westervliet arsenal, with the rank of second lieutenant, for one year, and then was transferred to Kennebec arsenal as commander. During the Seminole Indian hostilities in Florida in 1857 he was chief of ordnance on the staff of General Harney, and from 1857 to 1861 was assistant professor of mathematics at West Point academy.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD.

He took command of the Third Maine Regiment of Volunteers. His commission as colonel bears the date of May 28, 1861, and by Sept. 3 of the same year he was a major general of volunteers. He was twice severely wounded and lost his right arm. During the Pennsylvania campaign, June to September, 1863, he commanded the Eleventh Corps of the Army of the Potomac, and was highly commended by General Meade for choosing and occupying, at the battle of Gettysburg, the position on Cemetery Ridge, for which action he also received the thanks of congress. Major General Howard was commissioned brigadier general in the regular army on Dec. 21, 1864, and on March 13, 1865.

Received His Brevet Major Generalship

"for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Ezra Church, and during the campaign against Atlanta."

After the close of the war, during the first year of the era of reconstruction, General Howard was appointed commissioner of the bureau of refugees, freedmen and abandoned lands, and remained in that capacity until June 30, 1872. The mismanagement of that department—the freedmen's bureau—during the time that General Howard was at its head is a matter of history, and it is the one thing which for a time threatened to be remembered to his discredit. But General Howard has lived down the adverse criticism, and refers now with pleasure and pride to his acts while at the head of that department.

In February, 1872, he was appointed special Indian commissioner to the hostile Apaches of New Mexico and Arizona, and in September, 1874, was assigned to the department of the Columbia. Indian fighting from then until January, 1881, when he was assigned to the command of the department of West Point and superintendent of the United States Military academy, had not changed General Howard's ideas as to the possibility of and despite his many encounters with them he is still of the opinion that under proper influences, by the employment of correct methods, much good in the Indian may be developed.

General Howard came to Governor's island from the department of the Platte, to which he was assigned in July, 1882. The foregoing is in brief the history of O. O. Howard's military career, which, if dealt with in detail, would fill a large volume. The empty sleeve attests his bravery, while numerous gifts and honorable mentions show that his services were appreciated.

"Let him who merits, le bear the palm; it is thine," is the inscription in Latin on a beautiful sword presented to General Howard by his men just after the battle of Bull Run. Another heavy sword was voted to the general at the close of the war in a contest at Washington, to decide who was the most popular commanding officer.

Reports From West Virginia Indicate That Congressman Wilson Is Defeated. The Southern States Appear to Be the Only Ones In the Democratic Column. Probable Complexion of the Next Session of Congress.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Morton has been elected governor of New York by a majority estimated from between 75,000 and 100,000.

LEVI P. MORTON.

Hill's majority in New York city, instead of being 45,000, as estimated, is not more than 5,000.

Tammany hall candidates are buried under from 15,000 to 25,000.

For the first time in the history of New York state politics for nearly half a century, the Republicans have a majority below Harlem bridge.

The Republican majority in Kings county is nearly 27,000.

WILLIAM L. STRONG.

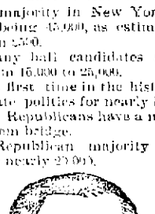
There has never been such a turnover in the history of the state, and the Democracy is dumfounded. The Republican state committee claim the election of the entire Republican ticket by 150,000. The Democratic committee concede the defeat of Hill by 50,000.

Lawyer Goff, who conducted the examination of the witnesses before the Lexow committee, has been elected recorder over Smyth. Tammany candidate, by from 20,000 to 30,000.

Tammany never received such a beating in its history. Not alone is the general county and city ticket snowed under, but the Tammany candidates for assemblymen and aldermen were treated to the most unexpected defeats. Even the so-called Tammany strongholds below Fourteenth street repudiated the tiger.

Such a crushing and humiliating defeat either means the most thorough reorganization of this once all-powerful organization or its retirement as a factor from politics.

Strong's plurality for mayor may exceed 30,000.



JOHN W. GOFF.

One of the greatest surprises as indicated on the face of the returns from the election districts in this city, although later returns may change the complexion of the membership, is that the next board of aldermen will be controlled by the anti-Tammanyites.

This will give the reformers complete control of the municipal politics, something that has not happened before in the history of the present generation. The Republicans can hardly contain themselves for joy. The whole city is glorifying over the result.

CARRIED EVERYTHING.

New Hampshire Governor and Legislature Will Be Republican.

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 7.—Election returns in New Hampshire were never more tardy, but every additional bulletin shows increasing Republican majorities. Returns thus far indicate that Busiel will have at least 6000 lead over Keat. There is no doubt of the election of two Republican congressmen, and the legislature will be Republican by at least 76.

The returns in members of the legislature are the most complete of any, and leave no doubt of the Republican victory. The only question now is one of size. Returns from the cities of the state are meager. Four wards in Manchester show a net Republican gain of 697. Concord will undoubtedly give its normal Republican majority.

Senator Chandler, in an interview, expressed himself as highly gratified at the result of Mr. Morton's canvass in New York. With regard to the outcome in New Hampshire, the senator declared that the Republican gain, as far as reported, no more than justified his expectations.

"There is no reason to doubt," said he, "that we have carried everything in this state. The legislature is surely Republican by the largest majority we have had in many years, and there is no doubt that the members favor my re-election by at least 8 to 1."

Senator Chandler telegraphs the New York Tribune as follows: "The details of the New Hampshire election are not important. The returns come in slowly, but there are great Republican gains all over the state. We will have large Republican pluralities for governor and our two congressmen, also the largest majority in the legislature we have had for many years, insuring the election of one of the most radical Republicans in the country as our next United States senator. But all minor results, such as this, are eclipsed by the magnificent triumph of Morton and Strong in New York city and state. A complete national victory in 1896 is within our reach."

RHODY'S SURPRISE.

Democrats Admit an Old-Fashioned Victory For Their Opponents.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 7.—Colonel Hunter C. White, the chairman of the Republican state central committee, said late last night that there could be no doubt that the Rhode Island voters had piled up an old-fashioned Republican victory. So far as he could see, there was no reason to believe that any later news could change the complexion of the results, and he had no reason to doubt that Rhode Island would be in the Republican line of the next congress.

Chairman Franklin P. Owen of the Democratic state central committee was ready to admit the fact of the Republican victory at 9 o'clock last night. He said the only hope he had ever held was that Mr. Lapham would be able to defeat Mr. Bull in the First District, but he could not deny that the figures as received pointed to a clean sweep for the Republican party.

A CLEAN SWEEP.

Connecticut Republicans Elect Governor and All Four Congressmen.

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—The Republicans elect the governor by 10,000 majority, and all four congressmen. They have a safe working majority in both branches of the legislature, and have gained the biggest victory for years.

THE BIGGEST YET.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Is Pennsylvania Republicans' Estimate.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Reports from all parts of the state indicate that the vote was fully as heavy as that polled in 1892. The contest in this state, which was the most active in recent years, was fought almost entirely on national lines, and the result was that voters in every county flocked to the polls.

In this city interest centered almost exclusively in the third congressional district, formerly represented by Samuel J. Randall. William McAleer (Dem.) is the present congressman from the Third, but he was defeated for renomination by what is known as the administration faction of the Democracy. In retaliation the McAleerites, who belong to the faction called the Pennsylvania Democracy, cut Joseph P. McCullen, the regular Democratic nominee, and voted for Frederick Halteman, Rep. The Republicans in turn voted for two Pennsylvania Democratic candidates for the legislature from the third and fourth wards.

Late figures show that the Republicans have carried the state by the largest majority ever known. Official returns indicate that Pennsylvania is Republican by 250,000.

HEARD ENOUGH.

Democrats of Ohio Concede Their Utter Rout by Republicans.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Chairman Allen W. Thurman of the Democratic state committee says: "We have heard from only 155 precincts in Ohio, but that is enough. If it keeps up, the Republicans will carry the state by at least 150,000. It means that there will not be a Democratic congressman elected in Ohio." Congressman Thomas L. Johnson concedes his defeat by between 4000 and 5000. McKinley's exact majority is uncertain.

IN WILSON'S DISTRICT.

Author of the New Tariff Law Defeated by a Small Margin.

WHEELING, Nov. 7.—The news from Wilson's district indicates that the fight has been one of the hottest ever fought in the history of the state. Both committees are claiming the district. The returns indicate Wilson's defeat. Dayton (Rep.) appears to have 15 majority. The Republicans claim a solid delegation.

GRAFTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Lafollette, the Republican chairman, claims Dayton's election by 1000.

Tillman Democrats Won.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 7.—Talbot, Latimer, Wilson and Newman, Straight, McLauren and Stokes, all Tillman Democrats, are certainly elected to congress. In the Charleston district Elliott, Cleveland Democrat, has probably defeated Murray, Republican, by a safe majority, but there is some doubt. Evans, Democrat, defeated Pope, Independent Democrat, by no less than 12,000. Many white Democrats and Republicans who voted supported Pope. The legislature is overwhelmingly in favor of Tillman for the United States senate.

Breckinridge's Friends Turned Out.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—In Breckinridge's district, Owens (Dem.) has been snowed under by Breckinridge's friends and Denny (Rep.) will probably be elected.

Governor Waite Probably Beaten.

DENVER, Nov. 7.—Returns indicate that McIntyre (Rep.) is elected by a good majority over Waite. Shafroth (Rep.) bears Pence (Pop.) for congress in the First district. Bowen (Rep.) may defeat Bell (Pop.) for congress in the Second district, but this is doubtful.

Conflicting Claims.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The chairman of the Republican state committee claims that Estee's plurality for governor will exceed 20,000. The chairman of the Democratic state committee claims a plurality of 12,000 for Budd.

Means Defeat For Manderson.

OMAHA, Nov. 7.—Populists and Democrats have probably carried the legislature, which means the election of Bryant (Dem.) by Populists over Manderson (Rep.) to the United States senate.

Probably One Populist Elected.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 7.—The indications are that the Democrats will elect congressmen in all but one district, the Seventh, which will probably go to Howard, Pop.

Republicans Claim It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Dispatches were received by the Republican headquarters announcing that the outlook in Wyoming is very promising for the Republicans.

Mississippi Democrats Won.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 7.—Latest official returns indicate the election of a full Democratic congressional delegation from Mississippi.

One Democratic Congressman.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Democrats concede Ohio to Republicans by 90,000. The Republicans have elected 10 out of 11 congressmen.

Six Democratic Congressmen.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 7.—Democrats have elected all congressmen from Louisiana.

Solid For Democrats.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 7.—Democrats have elected all congressmen from Arkansas.

Solid Democratic Delegation.

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—Georgia elects a solid Democratic delegation to congress.

How Leaders Viewed It.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Governor Greenhalge was interviewed last evening, and said: "I am satisfied with the result. The apparent majority, in spite of the unfavorable weather and the danger of extravagant confidence, is something surprising and indicates the profound feeling of Massachusetts on the great issues of the hour. New York is the great pivotal center. Give the Republican party possession there, and I believe that the cause of good government, of law and order, will be promoted."

The following telegram was sent to President Cleveland in Washington: "Russell defeated by about 60,000. Greenhalge vote about 5 per cent less than last year. Russell's loss, 14 per cent in Boston; 26 per cent in other cities, and 35 per cent in country towns. Russell carries Boston by 3800, as against 9700 last year."

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott said: "Massachusetts has once more placed herself in the ranks of solidly Republican states, where she belongs. The result of the vote has very greatly pleased and encouraged me."

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge: "I am very greatly pleased with the result. We have elected 12 congressmen in Massachusetts, and that is a pretty fair indication of the result all over the country. The Republican party will control the next house of representatives."

Samuel Winslow, chairman of the state Republican committee: "The results bear out the confidence of the state committee and the better judgment of the people of Massachusetts. Governor Greenhalge's very large majority tells the story."

Manley Feels Good.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Joseph Manley, chairman of the Republican national committee, sent the following telegram of congratulations: To J. W. Babcock, chairman of the Republican congressional committee at Washington: "I heartily congratulate you on the result of your labors. Our victory is perfect and complete from Maine to California. The result in New York is the grandest victory of all. We have laid this day a solid foundation upon which to erect in 1896 the statute of national victory for protection and prosperity."

The Dead Monarch.

LIVADIA, Nov. 7.—It is officially stated that the body of the late czar, after lying in state in the church of the palace here, will be taken to Valka and from there conveyed to Sebastopol on board the Russian cruiser Pamyat Merkoovia. At Moscow the body will lie in state for several days at the Archangel cathedral, and at St. Petersburg the remains will repose in state in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul. At the towns where the funeral train stops on its way to Moscow and to St. Petersburg dinners for the poor will be provided at the expense of the czar, and at each stopping place a requiem mass will be celebrated.

Streets Full of Wires.

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—This city presented a curious appearance yesterday. Almost every telegraph and telephone pole was down and the streets were filled with wires of all sorts. H. F. Ludwig was killed by an electric wire shortly after midnight. His body was horribly burned, and those who removed him to the morgue received severe shocks. Reports from Meriden and New Haven show that those cities were badly afflicted.

Roasted Alive.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—The residence of Mrs. Julia Wright was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The fire started in Mrs. Wright's room, and when a search was made nothing but a few of her bones were found. She was about 75 years of age.

Talking Business.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—British officials here have sent an ultimatum to the viceroy demanding a settlement of the Chung-king affair within seven days. The British demands are that Taoui Sheng be dismissed and disgraced, that the Chung-King be saluted with 21 guns from the Taku forts and a money indemnity be paid to the owners of the Chung-King. If these demands are not complied with within the specified time, reprisals upon the part of the British fleet are threatened.

Deputy Marshal Has Fled.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Walter W. Booth, employed by a New York banker, was probably fatally shot by a United States deputy marshal at Elmford polling place yesterday, during an election quarrel. The deputy marshal is missing.

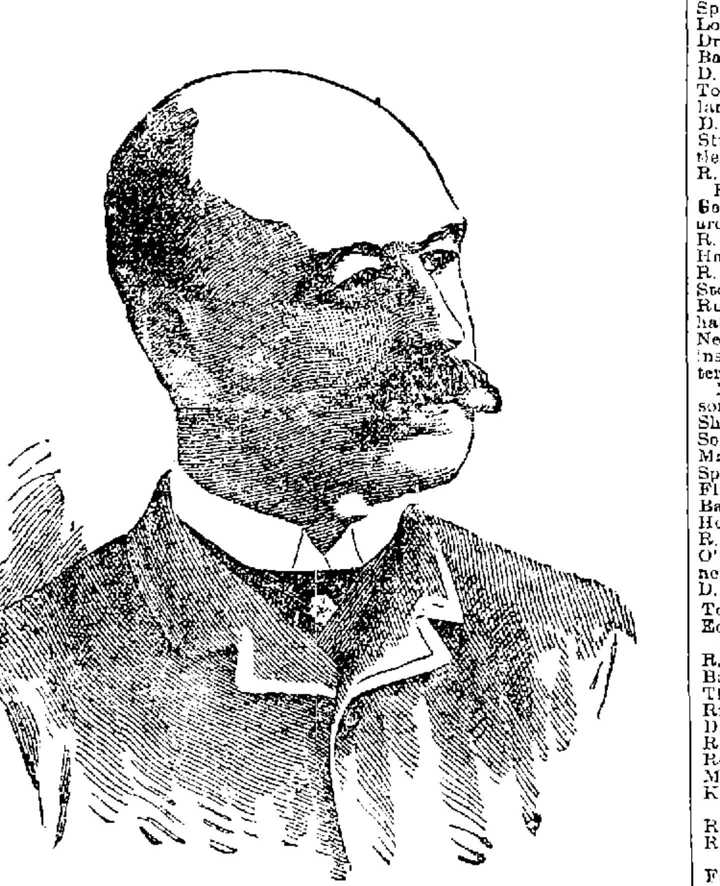
A GENERAL POLITICAL SWEEP.

In Which the G. O. P. Has Scored a Triumph.

Governor Greenhalge Carries the State by Over 50,000 and This City by 1198—Fifield and Brady Go Down in the Overwhelming Cataclysm—The A. P. A. Gives Wolcott a Severe Blow—The Populists Rejoice in Brady's Defeat and Foss's Victory—The French Gone Over Body and Boots to the G. O. P.—Complete Returns, Local and General.



Owing to the prostration of wires in New England by the recent storm the election returns are coming in slowly. Figures received indicate that the next congress will be strongly Republican. Morton carried New York state by an enormous majority. There was an extraordinary uprising against corruption in New York city, and Tammany suffered a complete Waterloo. Strong's election as mayor by about 30,000 is conceded, and Reformer Goff was elected recorder.

It is estimated that Greenhalge's plurality in Massachusetts will figure up 50,000. Republicans gained all over the state, Fitzgerald of Boston being the only Democrat elected to congress. Russell's plurality in Boston was whittled down to 3000.

Summed up, the Republican victories appear to be general, tremendous majorities being recorded in Ohio and Pennsylvania. Chairman Wilson of the ways and means committee failed of re-election by the narrow margin of 16.

Babcock's Estimate.

Chairman Babcock of the Republican committee sent out a dispatch from Washington last night saying that the gains in Republican congressmen elected already received indicate that the party will control the next house. His latest claim is that the Republicans already have based on the returns at hand 190 seats, the Democrats 152 and the Populists 12, giving the Republicans a majority of 26. The Democrats do not concede this claim. Here is his latest table:

How Mill Operatives Voted.

A careful review of returns showing the result of the election in the New England states emphasizes the position of mill operatives, as the heaviest Republican gains are noted in the manufacturing centers.

The recent period of depression, accompanied by strikes and lockouts, has been freely used during the campaign, and the claim was made that the hard times were the direct result of Democratic tariff notion and the lack of confidence in that party's management at Washington.

Whether true or false, this cry appears to have had a marked influence, and many men who in the past have supported the Democratic party and its candidates are this year reported as voting for Republican candidates or staying away from the polls altogether.

The strength of this feeling is perhaps better shown in the Thirteenth congressional district in Massachusetts, where Robert Howard, a strong labor advocate and champion, running upon the Democratic ticket, failed to secure the vote of the laboring classes.

THE RETURNS.

Bay State Republicans Won a Greater Victory Than Was Anticipated.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The story of the Massachusetts election can easily be told. The triumph of the Republicans is so complete that even the Democratic leaders are stunned at the result. Governor Greenhalge is re-elected chief executive of this state by a majority of more than 60,000, 12 of the 13 congressmen are Republicans, and the state legislature in both branches is completely under the control of the same party.

On account of the storm, which crippled and in some cases destroyed entirely the telegraphic service of the state, returns have come in slowly, but all that have reached this city tell the same story, and that of a Democratic Waterloo. Since the beginning of the campaign the re-election of Governor Greenhalge has been conceded by his opponents, the only question being one of majority. Naturally, therefore, the greatest interest centered in the contests in the different congressional districts.

In the present congress Massachusetts was represented by nine Republicans and four Democratic members. In no case was a Democratic congressman renominated, and in only one case has a candidate for congressional honors been successful. John F. Fitzgerald in the Ninth district, at present represented by Joseph H. O'Neil, pulls through with the lead of perhaps 2500. In Congressman Stevens' district Candidate Knox (Rep.) is elected by a substantial majority, as is William E. Barrett in the Seventh district.

The hottest and most acrimonious contest was in the Tenth district, at present represented by Congressman McEttrick. William S. McNary received a regular Democratic nomination, McEttrick running independent. These Democrats were opposed by Harrison H. Atwood, the regular Republican nominee, and F. W. Peabody, bolting Republican.

As the campaign progressed it became a Kilkenny fight, in which personal views and matters foreign to a political campaign entered freely. Atwood alone refrained from tactics of the kind, and by his silence gained not only Republican votes, but the support of many Democrats, who were disgusted with the action of the Democrats. The full congressional delegation elected is as follows:

New England Congressmen.

First district, A. B. Wright, R.
Second district, F. H. Gillett, R.
Third district, J. H. Walker, R.
Fourth district, L. D. Apsley, R.
Fifth district, W. E. Knox, R.
Sixth district, William Cogswell, R.
Seventh district, W. E. Barrett, R.
Eighth district, S. W. McCall, R.
Ninth district, J. F. Fitzgerald, D.
Tenth district, H. H. Atwood, R.
Eleventh district, W. F. Draper, R.
Twelfth district, E. A. Morse, R.
Thirteenth district, J. Simpkins, R.

Yesterday's elections, joined with those previously held in Maine and Vermont, show that the New England delegation in the Fifty-fourth congress will be as follows:

Maine—First district, Thomas B. Reed, R.; Second district, Nelson Dingley, R.; Third district, Seth L. Milligan, R.; Fourth district, Charles A. Boutelle, R.

New Hampshire—First district, Cyrus A. Sulloway, R.; Second district, Henry M. Baker, R.

Vermont—First district, Henry Powers, R.; Second district, William W. Grout, R.

Rhode Island—First district, Melville Bull, R.; Second district, Warren O. Arnold, R.

The general demoralization of telegraph lines in this state makes it practically impossible to secure full returns from the different senatorial and legislative districts. Figures indicate the election of the following senators and representatives to the Massachusetts general court:

RESULT OF LOCAL CONTESTS.

HOW DEMOCRATS WERE SLAUGHTERED AT THE POLLS.

Knox and Foss Elected Over Fifield and Brady—Greenhalge Carries the City by a Large Plurality—The French Vote Swells Republican Totals—Populist Vote Larger Than Expected.

Whew ! ! !

It was a political hurricane the worst since McKinley was routed in 1890.

It was a result of the recent panic together with the wrangling and dissensions carried on by the democratic party.

It was a uniform and universal democratic slump that swept almost the entire country and of course took in our own city burying Senator Brady, Hon. George W. Fifield and every other candidate on the ticket with the exception of our representatives in the impregnable democratic strongholds.

It was a combination of the most heterogeneous elements against the democracy.

The A. P. A. may claim the victory if it will but the entire A. P. A. vote added to that of some democratic candidates would hardly save them from defeat.

To begin with the head of the ticket, Gov. Greenhalge carried the city by 1198 in a total of 12,736. Wolcott by a plurality of 133. Shapleigh 1141.

Brady was defeated by a plurality of 338 and Connolly, the populist, received 255 votes.

Fifield was beaten by 76 votes in this city.

A couple of liquor dealers are known to have worked against Brady but their influence was not sufficient to cause his defeat.

There were other defections but none sufficient to produce such a complete overthrow.

Representatives Hoban of Ward Six, O'Connor of Ward Three and Rourke of Ward One offer the only consolation to the local democracy.

Ward Five has gone over to the republican column, giving Greenhalge 1192, Russell 867, Foss 1047, Brady 899.

Precincts 4 and 5 of Ward Three went republican, showing a complete overthrow which is claimed as an A. P. A. advance, although there is no evidence that it is entirely due to that cause.

It was announced that the A. P. A. was to cut Gov. Greenhalge but that was all changed and they supported him loyally. But they opposed Lieut.-Gov. Wolcott by every means in their power, casting their votes for the prohibition candidate instead as a punishment for his having voted for a Catholic for the state board of education.

The extent of this opposition will be seen in the difference between the vote for governor and lieutenant governor on the prohibition ticket.

Richardson for governor received 137 votes in this city and Shapleigh the candidate for lieutenant governor 1141 showing a difference of 1004 votes which is the A. P. A. voting strength as nearly as it can be calculated from the returns in this city.

Bill Hayes does not seem to have suffered from the A. P. A. opposition although he received 91 votes less than Bennett and 53 less than Roper.

Other deductions may be made from a fuller examination of the returns but enough is here indicated to show the extent of the republican sweep. The returns are given below:

Scenes at City Hall.

City hall was the headquarters for representatives of all classes last night. The official returns were received at the city clerk's office and were read aloud to the anxious voters, who commenced to gather early, as it was expected that the results would come in early, owing to the addition of the eleven extra precincts. Chairman Pearson of the democratic city committee was there and so was his lieutenant, Secretary Sullivan. Mr. Pearson was hopeful during the early part of the evening while Mr. Sullivan seemed to read the handwriting at a glance. Lawyer Owens dropped in "for a few minutes," as he said, but he managed to stay till the last gun was fired.

At 6.45 the first returns came in. They were from precinct 2, Ward One, and the crowd commenced to figure. It looked rosy for democratic success they said, and the word was passed along. The reporters sat around tables in Clerk Dowd's office and took the returns as they came in.

About 7.30, the precinct officers with the ballot boxes began to arrive at city hall one after the other, and by nine o'clock there were nine precincts heard from. The crowd swelled, and the corridors commenced to fill up rapidly. Candidates Rourke, O'Connor and Hoban were quite attentive to the figures read out by the clerk, and "Tommy" Hoban was especially anxious. "Charlie" Riley had a bet with James Gookin, that Hoban would win by 200 or over.

When the returns showed that Hoban had about 280 votes to spare "Charlie" was tickled and said he would sport a new hat next Sunday. Dr. Kelley, candidate for school committee in the third ward was very much interested in the figures as they were read.

License Commissioner Smith and his clerk, James Miskella were on hand during the evening. The report was circulated that Hill was beaten by 50,000 and New York city went republican. "Well, it isn't Hill's defeat, it is the defeat of Cleveland" said one of Hill's ardent admirers.

While all this was going on the mayor and aldermen were in session upstairs and incidentally talked on the vote of the day. The republican aldermen admitted that Fifield would carry the city by 500, but were just as certain that Brady would not be in it.

A SUN reporter showed Mayor Pickman some figures for Ward Four. When the mayor read precinct 4, he said; "It was that district that assured my election, last year."

At 9 o'clock it dawned upon the lookers on, that Brady was beaten and then it was a question of Foss' majority. Ward Six complete returns showed a net loss of 85 for Brady, and Ward Five reported a net loss of 298.

This is where the French vote and some liquor dealers got in their work.

Twenty-eight precincts were in at 10 o'clock and they showed great republican gains.

Fred Rourke was delighted with his vote in Ward One and felt flattered at the size of his majority.

"Joe" O'Connor said he was not in the least troubled. "Why should you, your fight is over," replied Councilman Gormley.

Telephone messages came in fast. It was quite evident that Mr. O'Connor had admirers among the gentler sex, who were working the telephone.

The Franklin club got a connection with city hall and were especially anxious for the result of the representative contests in Wards Four and Five.

"Salmagundi," the democratic nominee for councillor, looked as unconcernedly as though nothing happened. The odor of good and bad cigars, cigarettes and pipes permeated the room.

During the wait for precinct 4 Ward 3, the last precinct in the city to be heard from the politicians exchanged stories and summed up the causes of defeat. At 11.15 the missing precinct was brought in.

It showed a democratic majority but not sufficient to offset the terrible republican gain. The result was read, Greenhalge, Knox, Foss and all the rest of them had carried the city and the crowd went home vowing they would vote "no license."

Evening at the Clubs.

Senator Brady spent the evening at the Big 12 rooms, where he received the returns that told him of his defeat. But he was not disheartened. Foss had won with the aid of certain liquor dealers and the boys promised to return the favor with interest in December. Brady fought a good fight but the odds were against him.

Franklin Club.

It was a jolly crowd that assembled in the Franklin club rooms and listened to the grand tales of triumph. Foss was cordially greeted and the members said it was a throw down for Col. Bennett. But the colonel does not die easy. He loses only to win.

At the Elks.

The Elks held a social session and heard the story of the votes. The crowd was divided. Some were glad, some were sad. But the defeat did not interfere with the sociability of the occasion. It was a great night for the Elks.

The returns were read at the Opera house and Music hall.

Notes of the Battle.

In precinct 4 Ward One, there were less blanks cast than in any other precinct in the city.

"Bill" Hayes has the call today. Three terms for "Old Hundred" is no joke, at least to the A. P. A's.

Alderman Lovejoy entertained a party at the Waverly house last evening.

Elwin was smiling as usual.

Reefers, Ulsters, and Cape Overcoats, for boys 4 to 14.

Overcoats, Ulsters and Reefers for boys, 14 to 18 years.

About all the good cloths are represented in all of the fashionable colors and right shapes.

We've between forty and fifty Cape Overcoats, sizes 5 years to 13—not very good garments—which we've marked to sell for $2 each.

They're certainly worth $2, and it may make them seem better if we tell you they cost a good bit more than we ask for them.

THEIR "AT HOME."

Society Pays Its Respects to Capt. Prince and His Bride.

The at home reception of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Prince was the pleasant event of last evening, at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Prince, on Simpson street.

The reception lasted from 8.30 to 10 o'clock, during which Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Prince assisted in receiving. The ushers were Messrs. George E. Lull, Charles M. Stevens and Wm. J. G. Myers. A very large number of friends paid their respects to the couple, and among those attending were many young married people.

In the dining room the Page company served lunch, and at the urns Miss Titcomb of Boston and Miss Prince presided. Mrs. Chadbourne of Reading was among the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Prince will be installed in their new home on East Merrimack street, the latter part of the month.

EASTHAM—The funeral of Adeline Eastham took place this afternoon from her parents' home, 40 Bridge street, and was well attended. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery.

Policeman Was Mistaken.

It was a good joke on a policeman yesterday while a woman was coming out of Brown Bros., store, at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets, she dropped a large bundle from under her shawl. She picked it up hurriedly and moved and then suspiciously started to run but was stopped by an officer who asked her to step into the store. She did so and after some inquiries Mr. Brown told the officer that the woman was one of his best customers. She explained that she had read THE SUN advertisement of the firm on underwear and had visited the store and bought a lot. She was hurrying home to tell her neighbors of the bargains. If you want underwear be sure and call.

Republicans Came to Chicago.

By Associated Press to THE SUN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Mayor Hopkins admits the republicans have carried the city by 15,000 and the state is also claimed by 70,000.

Mr. Rivets Statement.

Lawyer Rivet denies the statement credited to him in THE SUN to the effect that the A. P. A. is opposed only to Irish Catholics. Mr. Turcotte says there was no deception in calling the rally of last Sunday although resolutions were passed upon Mr. Mercier's death. THE SUN's account of the rally was obtained from a gentleman who was present but who evidently got things a little mixed.

DOES THE Rev. Mr. Montgomery feel "put out?"

GOV. GREENHALGE has promised to unearth, if possible, the evils of democratic rule in this state. Are the evils of republican rule to be overlooked?

THE MILITARY forces brought into requisition by the federal election law were not in evidence yesterday. The people were not scared away from the polls by an array of armed men.

THE MAIL takes Mr. Farley to task for speaking at a democratic rally on Sunday. How about the French rally held in Jackson hall last Sunday. The holding of the rally was not half so bad as the deceptive manner in which it was called.

It is well that war has been declared on cattle in Brockton that are afflicted with tuberculosis. The disease must be stamped out if the drinkers of milk are to have their apprehension quieted—Brockton Enprise.

Will Milk Inspector Allen say whether there is any tuberculosis in cattle around Lowell?

THE EXTENSION of the civil service rules to cover custom house officials is a step in the right direction. When faithful officials, appointed by proper methods, prove to be efficient servants of the government, there is no reason why they should be removed so long as they perform their duties satisfactorily.

The Central Labor union reports show general improvement in local textile industries, with a dulness in the mechanical trades. The latter is nothing unusual at this season of the year, when building operations are generally suspending in anticipation of the appaoach of winter.—Lawrence Tribune.

What reports does the Lowell Central Labor union give on these points? Perhaps our union is too much interested in its populistic candidates.

IT SEEMS that the English people or at least a section of them are determined to scare the house of lords. A few dynamite explosions would intimidate their lordships and probably induce them to hear reason. The proposal of Lord Rosebery to submit the matter to the people is a very reasonable one and if rejected will enrage the people against the lords and cause the most determined movement that ever beset the hereditary stronghold of the lords.

THE SEIZURE officers made several raids yesterday. Was that done for effect? They did not make any raid in a certain part of Ward Five, although it is stated that one speak easy, if not more, has been in full blast there for several months past. Was the fact that an election was approaching and that votes were needed, sufficient incentive to let the speak easies run until after election day. It makes some difference perhaps who runs the speak easy and how the proprietor votes.

THE ELECTION SWEEP.

The election is over and the republicans have scored a triumph.

It was a national victory that will have far reaching effects.

That Massachusetts has gone strongly republican is only what was expected but the overturn in New York city and state is a universal surprise. Not even the republicans themselves anticipated such a victory. Senator Hill made a gallant fight, but the times were against him.

The democratic party has had to suffer for the panic which was precipitated by republican legislation.

The calamity howling has had its effect and the republican party will control the next congressional house.

Congressman Wilson went down in the cataclysm, and Pennsylvania gave a sweeping plurality for the republican candidates on account of the intent of the democratic party to put coal and iron on the free list.

The victory for the republicans is not greater, however, than was that of the democrats when McKinley and his adherents went down in defeat in 1890.

McKinley, Reed and Morton will now be the heroes of the hour in republican politics.

The result will check the progress of tariff reform by the democratic party but the new tariff law is nevertheless assured a fair trial. However disagreeable the result of yesterday's election, it is the verdict of the people and should be accepted with patriotic submission.

The defeat of Fifield and Brady is but our share of the general slump and cannot be attributed to the opposition of any clique or combination.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

The republican papers are shouting for municipal reform and the democratic press are also in favor of such reform. Democrats want a lower tax rate and less extravagance. If democrats were in control of the government they would never blame republicans with responsibility for their acts.

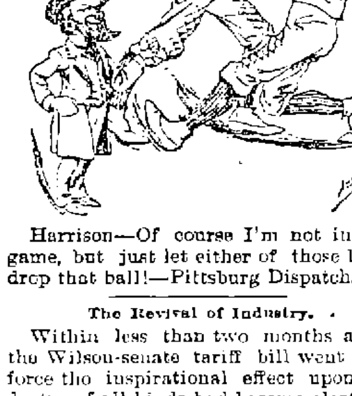
Every department of the city government is at present in charge of committees, each of which has a republican majority, yet republicans claim that their opponents are responsible for the high tax rate.

Municipal reform has been well started in Haverhill by the conviction of four aldermen for official corruption. They are all republicans except one, Mr. Ham. Let the good work to go on.

THE VERDICT in the Haverhill boodle case is pronounced a just one by all friends of justice. When men holding public office so far forget their duty and the interests of the public in the management of the liquor traffic they should be punished. The people of other cities would be glad to have another District Attorney Moody who would bring offending aldermen to justice. It seems that in many cities the aldermen took advantage of their last chance to suit the liquor dealers.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S patriotism would not have suffered if he had gone to the polls and voted like any other good citizen of the United States.

An Interested Spectator.



Harrison—Of course I'm not in the game, but just let either of those boys drop that ball!—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Revival of Industry.

Within less than two months after the Wilson-senate tariff bill went into force the inspirational effect upon industry of all kinds had become electrical, says the Chicago Times. Never in its history have the recuperative powers of this country been manifested in such degree as in the revival of industry which has gone on all over the country and representing all lines of business since Sept. 1. The Republican press even is compelled to acknowledge the fact. The Detroit Journal, the organ of the ultra protection element of Michigan Republicanism, calls upon the calamity howlers to "quit croaking," because the evidence of restored prosperity and growing confidence is on every hand apparent, and the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, another dyed in the wool organ of protection, has been making an investigation of industrial conditions in Indiana which compels its frank admission of the wonderful change already felt in that state.

There is nothing local about the influence of the new tariff law. Every section of the country feels the impulse of its beneficent provisions, and from the woolen manufacturers of New England and the live stock growers on the Mexican border come the same reports of better times at hand.

The Clover Is Sprouting.

Mr. Harrison twits the Democrats with having failed to keep their promise that the country should be "in clover." The trouble with the ex-president is that he insists on the Democracy furnishing a crop of four leaf clover, while he and his party have been doing their worst to sow tares in the field by night. Yet, in spite of them, the clover of better times is sprouting finely.—Philadelphia Record.

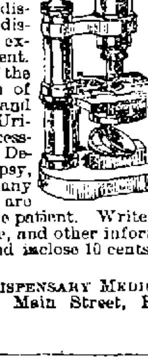
They Had Reason to Be Scared.

Benjamin Harrison says the cause of the hard times was the fact that people got scared. They had good reason to be scared at the policy of the party which Mr. Harrison represents. If they had not been scared, they would not have overthrown it and consequently would not be witnessing a revival of business prosperity.—St. Paul Morning Call.

Harrison's Boom Is Away Off.

Mr. Harrison more ably misrepresents the causes of the now disappearing business depression than Mr. McKinley does, but the Harrison boom is still away back yonder.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

THE MICROSCOPE.



A careful microscopical examination and chemical analysis of the urine, is a valuable aid in determining the nature of many chronic diseases, particularly those of the nervous system, blood, liver, kidneys, and bladder. These aids make it possible to treat such diseases successfully at a distance, without personal examination of the patient. Thus Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, Gravel, and other Diseases of the Urinary Organs are successfully treated; Nervous Debility, Exhaustion, Dropsy, Liver Disease, and many other Chronic Maladies are cured without seeing the patient. How Serious Trouble Was Averted.

When Mr. Benjamin Billiwink looked at the change he had in his pocket after getting off the North Side street car that brought him down town yesterday morning, he found that the conductor had passed a plugged 5 cent piece on him.

Mr. Billiwink did not care for the value of the coin, but he had the average American's dislike to being overreached, and he put that plugged coin back in his pocket and bided his time.

In the evening he climbed aboard a north bound street car, and when the conductor came round Mr. Billiwink handed him that identical 5 cent piece.

The conductor looked at it and handed it back.

"I can't take it," he said. "It's plugged."

"Yes," replied Mr. Billiwink. "I know it. It's plugged. But you'll take it."

"I reckon not. If I turn in that plugged nickel, I'll have to make it good out of my own pocket, and I can't afford it. You give me good money, or I can't carry you."

Then Mr. Billiwink rose up in his wrath.

"Yes, you will," he snorted, "and you'll take that nickel too. Look here! I got that from Conductor No. 437 on this line this very morning. Here's the rest of the change, just as he gave it to me."

"I can't help that. I've got my orders, and"—

"You've got orders not to take plugged nickels, but you're allowed to pay 'em out!" vociferated Mr. Billiwink, regardless of the sensation he was creating in the crowded car. "If the company gives out a plugged nickel, they ought to take it back, and if they pass one on me they've got to take it back, by ginger! That's all there is to it. Now, you can take this or nothing. It's all you'll get."

Mr. Billiwink was determined not to be put off that car without a fight, and he braced himself for the coming shock.

"Well," said the conductor after reflecting a moment, "I can't take that piece of money, but I guess you haven't got very far to ride, and you can ride without paying anything. You'll get even that way. Will that be satisfactory?"

Mr. Billiwink wilted.

"Thunder!" he said. "If you're not going to kick harder than that, I'll give you a good nickel."

Which he did—and got off at the next crossing.—Chicago Tribune.

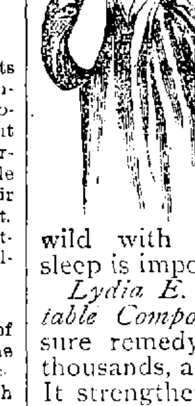
He (just introduced and anxious to make a good impression): "Are you the beautiful Miss Lackaday of whom my sister is always talking?"

She: "Oh, no. You must be thinking of my cousin, who's a great friend of your sister."

He: "Exactly. I thought I had made a mistake, don'tcherknow!"

Women Must Sleep.

If they only could sleep eight hours every night and one hour every day—Their freshness and beauty would continue to the end.



Years would be added to their lives. All derangements of the uterus or womb, ovarian or kidney troubles, uterus tumors, spinal weakness, irregularity, indigestion, exhaustion, or "displacement," drives the nerves wild with excitement, and sleep is impossible.

SELECTION OF WALL PAPER AND COLOR FOR WOOD WORK.

Ideas On the Different Kinds of Wall, Frieze and Ceiling Papers—The Tyrant Potato—Labor Saving Devices—Favorite Cloths and Colors.

"I have no sympathy with the common idea that you decrease the apparent height of your room by deep friezes. Suppose you do suffer from the optical delusion of losing six inches. Is there not a sense of quaintness and comfort in a room that is low? At any rate, we all feel how pleasant and cozy are the old farmhouses with low timbered ceilings. This sense of snugness is well illustrated at the chateau of Riols, where the timbered ceilings of the rooms are comparatively low and are colored a sea green blue, to which is superadded an abundance of colored and stenciled ornament," says a writer in The Decorator and Furnisher, the source of the following:

All papers used in staircases and other apartments where the light is defective should have their ornament bold and strong, delicate combinations of tones being reserved for rooms well lighted. There is a tradition that all ceilings should be light in scale. Well, many should be, but they may be successful in deeper and richer tones.

Remember the blue of a summer sky sometimes as a suggestion. Gold on ordinary papers, when perfectly flat, is not always pleasant. The true glory of gold refuses to express itself except on undulating surfaces, where its metallic luster is developed.

In coloring the surrounding woodwork of rooms it is a comparatively safe rule to select a tint from some section of the ornament in the wall paper. In selecting wall, frieze and ceiling papers it is well that the wall paper should be the darkest in tone, the others ascending in the scale of light and each having the same tints of color running through, but in varying degrees. This is recommended as avoiding an effect of disturbed harmony, but possessing a color instinct during arrangements of contrasts may be accomplished with success.

It is an error to think that on a ground of strong color our pictures suffer. If we take care that our areas of color are flat and contain some sense of broad unity in the whole scheme, this will not occur. These backgrounds may be as strong as you like if the parts are well balanced and each color of pretty near the same depth of tone. Gold or black picture frames are a sufficient separation.

The old Venetians reveled in the fullness of tones. Why should we not follow their example and take suggestions from their source of inspiration, which was the barbaric splendor of eastern color? We all recognize and admire the redundant richness of color as found in Persian fabrics, Japanese lacquers and Moresque tiles. If this wealth and brilliancy is a delight in sunnier lands, it should be doubly welcome to us, where the need of the joys of color are all the greater.

In a delightful nursery frieze the repeat consists of two panels, each containing two attractive children whispering secrets to one another. It is certainly a wide awake idea for the delectation of the rising generation.

The Tyrant Potato.

"Personally I should not care if I never saw another Irish potato," said I to a friend. "And nobody in my family cares particularly for them, yet somehow, like every other housekeeper, I feel obliged to keep them on hand and have them in one shape or another upon the dinner table every day."

"Your servants probably could not support existence without them?"

"On the contrary. I believe they prefer almost any other vegetable. Cold potatoes are invariably among the left overs."

After which colloquy I bought a peck and ordered them to be stored in the cellar for family consumption, writes Marion Harland in Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. Rorer declares the potato to be neither wholesome nor elegant. I add to these disqualifications for the place of universal favorite unpalatableness per se. When unripe, it is like chewing gum to the teeth and hot lead to the stomach. Medical authorities warn the public of the middle states against eating new potatoes before the Fourth of July at the earliest. Until they boil mealily they clog and irritate digestive canals. Yet at this stage of an arrogant career they are more in demand and command higher prices than at any other.

Bread is the housewife's strong staff, and butter her beautiful rod of sovereignty, yet domestic statistics prove that in the great middle class there are not a few households in which the annual supply of potatoes costs as much as the flour or the butter purchased in the same time.

Labor Saving Devices.

A New York woman is said to have invented a darning machine, a miniature loom, which will darn any hole 2½ by 5 inches or less, and do it so neatly that no rough edges will remain.

A new device is a cake beater, for which it is claimed that it will mix any kind of cake from griddle cake to the finest fancy confection in one minute. Besides the saving of time and labor over the old spoon process it does not leave one with a tired back and arm and a lot of dishes and spoons to clean. In appearance it is somewhat like a flour sifter.

Favorite Cloths and Colors.

A pale mastic color in cloth finds favor trimmed with beaver, and also with pinked out designs in the same cloth laid over a darker velvet. This cut out cloth, which hitherto has only been used for mantles, is likely to be much worn during the winter on gowns, and deep points treated in this way are placed on the outside of the arm from the shoulder toward the elbow. Dominant colors this winter will be green and brown. Black and white find general appreciation, such as black and white narrow striped velvet, made up for evening with an under bodice of yellow satin and cerise rosettes at the neck, a daring mixture of color.

When the common earthworm is cut in two, to the tail there grows a head and to the head there grows a tail, and two animals are formed. As the wound heals a small white button is formed, which afterward develops into rings and a perfect extremity.

"Lecturettes" is the latest addition to our language. It comes from the land of "lady mayoresses and lady paintresses," and seems to mean an informal talk—sort of froth of a lecture perhaps.

THE DAINTY PARISIENNE.

A Creature Gifted With All the Superficial Graces Which Charm Men.

"The Parisiennes are born comedians," said an author of the last century, and this is the description he gives of a true Parisienne: To be or to become a Parisienne a woman must be a gormand, capricious, ambitious and a coquette. She begins to live only toward evening. At 12 she is at her zenith. She knows nothing, not even how to make a cup of tea, but she serves her sickly beverage with so much grace and her Sevres cups are so transparent and so exquisite that you love it and love her.

When the Parisienne gives a dinner party, she thinks of the flowers and the fruit and leaves the rest to her cook, so sure is she to mend a bad dish with a bonmot. Her beauty, which is problematic and has nothing to do with the type preferred by the sculptor, lasts her a quarter of a century, this because the beauty of the Parisienne is the beaute du diable, and the devil never gets old. She knows how to sit, to get up, to kneel, how to do everything, for she never forgets her role and is always on the stage. She has studied herself in all positions, full face, side face and three-quarter face, and she knows what she can do without losing an inch of her charm and when to stop in time.

If she has a wisp of hair moving about, or dangling on her forehead, or sticking up above her coils, do not say, "I beg your pardon, madame, your hair is out of order," for this wisp has been studied and arranged, and where it is and how it dangles it is meant to be and to dangle. On her face is the suggestion of all beauties, but none is perfect. She reflects the white snow of the north and the sun rays of the south. She has the quiet eye of the American and the dreamy look of the Russian. She is clean and dainty like the English, as lively as a gypsy of Seville or a Florentine signora. All is hers, wit, charm, artistic coquetry, easiness of manners, kindness and mischievousness. Either as a duchess, milliner, actress, circus rider, tamer of beasts or of men, she is always the Parisienne and always has been, a creature stamped at her birth by an angel and by a devil, both of them having left their seal on her.

SOURCE OF THE MISSOURI.

Six Considerable Rivers Joined Together Form Its Actual Head.

The actual head of the Missouri river, or what should be known as such had it been intelligently named, is De Lacy's or Shoshone lake, in the National park. This lake, a considerable body of water, is the source of the Madison river and forms with the river the drainage outlet for most of the waters of that portion of the National park. The Gallatin, or left source of the Missouri, is formed by two streams, the East and West Gallatin, which unite about a mile above its junction with the Missouri. The Madison and Gallatin are both somewhat smaller than the Jefferson.

Had Lewis and Clark ascended the Madison instead of the Jefferson, which, being the larger stream, they naturally mistook for the continuation of the Missouri, they would have discovered the famous geysers in Firehole basin, Shoshone lake and all the country which is now incorporated within the limits of the National park. The Big Hole and the Beaverhead rivers flow into the Jefferson at Twin Bridges, a few miles from the confluence of the Jefferson with the Missouri, so that in reality there are six considerable rivers, all joining one another within a radius of a few miles, which unite to form the longest river in the world, measured from the gulf to the Rocky mountains.—Bozeman Chronicle.

Face to Face With Tigers.

Among Sir Hope Grant's notes of his life in India are two brief accounts of close encounters with tigers, though Sir Hope himself does not figure in either adventure. Major Callnet was out shooting when he came suddenly face to face with a tiger. Just as he was firing the Lowdah gave way, and he fell almost into the animal's mouth.

The tiger seized him by the thigh and carried him off. While in this situation he recollected that he had a brace of pistols in his pocket. He managed to draw one and snapped it at the beast's head, but it missed fire.

Still retaining his presence of mind, he pulled out the other and fired. The tiger bounded on a few yards and then dropped dead.

Callnet told me of this himself. He was very badly wounded and is still dreadfully lame.

Mr. Young of the civil service heard that a tiger had forced his way into a native hut and was holding it against its human owner. Mr. Young mounted the roof and effected an entrance.

The tiger charged. He fired both barrels and turned to get his second gun from his attendant, but the fellow had bolted.

The tiger was close up, and Mr. Young, in despair, lifted the gun with both hands in front of his head. The beast sprang, seized the barrel in his mouth and then dropped dead. I saw the gun dented with the tiger's teeth.

A Reportorial Tragedy.

The susceptible and diffident reporter had called on the beautiful young actress to interview her on the elevation of the stage. He had sent up his card and was awaiting her in the reception room.

When she entered, he sat near a window, which, while it blinded her so that she could not see him, poured over her a flood of light and brought out in glorious radiance her entrancing beauty.

For an instant he sat as if spellbound, and then, rising awkwardly and stammering, he came toward her.

As he drew near her eyes became fixed on him with a horrified stare, and with a fearful shriek she turned and fled from the room.

He had lost his head completely, and she had not yet become accustomed to that sort of thing.—Detroit Free Press.

CURING A SORE THROAT.

A Remedy That Acted Promptly and Was Singularly Successful.

A good story is told in Stageland of a Berlin prima donna who lived in the time of Frederick the Great. Whenever anything or anybody displeased her, she had a habit of suddenly becoming too hoarse to sing. One day an opera in her repertory was to be performed, and the king was expected to be present.

At the appointed hour the manager came forward and announced that, owing to a sore throat, Mlle. So-and-so was unable to appear. The people were preparing to leave the house, but the king rose and commanded them to keep their seats. A few moments afterward an officer and four dragoons entered the capricious lady's room.

"Mademoiselle," said the officer, "the king inquires after your health."

"The king is very good," she said. "I have a sore throat."

"His majesty is aware of the fact and has charged me to take you to the military hospital to be cured."

Mademoiselle turned very pale, suggested that they were jesting, but was told that Prussian officers never indulged in such a thing. Soon she found herself in a coach with four men.

"I am a little better now," she faltered, "and I will try to sing."

"Back to the theater," said the officer to the coachman.

Mademoiselle began to think she had yielded too easily.

"I shall not be able to sing at my best," she interposed.

"I think you will," was the sententious reply.

"And why?"

"Because two dragoons in attendance behind the scenes have orders to carry you off to the military hospital at the least cough."

Never, it was said, did the prima donna sing better.

"Milked One Whole Cow."

At a pleasant home in Covington one evening a happy company were gathered. The host and hostess had just returned from a trip to Mackinac, and the young wife was relating to her guests some of the incidents of the journey.

"Oh, I learned so many things while we were gone!" said she, and her pretty face was lighted with the most becoming animation as she went on breathlessly:

"We stopped one day at the state institution for the deaf and dumb in Michigan, and what do you think the steward told us? Why, he said they sift a barrel of flour for every meal there."

"A barrel of flour!" said a young lady who was listening.

"Yes," said the hostess triumphantly, "for every meal. And how many potatoes do you suppose they peel for dinner? Guess."

Nobody dared.

"Ten bushels. Just think of it! And they use three barrels of cabbage, and when they have watermelon it takes just 260 to go round. But listen. That isn't all. They seed 175 pounds of raisins for the Sunday cake, and they put 21 bushels of apples in the pies. Don't they, Harry?"

Harry was the husband and the companion in this remarkable voyage of discovery. He turned to his wife fondly and then drawled out the meanest speech of his married life:

"Yes, my dear, not only that, but they milk one whole cow every day."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Nick Young's Fault.

Recently there was a very happy complement of passengers going from Baltimore to Boston with Captain Howes of the Merchants and Miners' line. The captain, by the way, is one of the best men that ever trod a quarter deck to make a trip with. Among the passengers was Nick Young of baseball fame. This and the fact that Captain Howes is an ardent admirer of the game gave rise to a great deal of baseball talk, which was heard by everybody, including the fussy old lady who talks to every person on board and makes herself generally disagreeable. Sunday afternoon she wanted to have a prayer meeting and went about arranging for a leader and a choir. Coming up behind two young men, she asked them if they sang.

"Well," replied one, "we are not troubadours at singing, but we sometimes make a bluff at it."

"Bluff, sir, bluff! Is that a term you use in baseball?" haughtily inquired the old lady as she marched off. And it was all owing to Nick Young and the baseball talk he caused.—Washington Star.

A Peculiar Conscience.

A gentleman in Frankfort who was robbed of 100 marks received the following letter:

"Honored sir, I have stolen you money. Now my conscience is beginning to trouble me, and I therefore inclose you herewith a 20 mark note. Next time I suffer any more qualms of conscience I will make you a further remittance."

It is something new to hear of pangs of conscience by installments.—Magdeburger Zeitung.

Paradises For Servants.

Typical servants' paradises are such houses as those of Mr. Alfred Rothschild, in Seamore place, and of Mrs. Montefiore, in Great Stanhope street. The former has been known to send a valued servant to the continent to recruit after an illness, paying all expenses, while at the country house of the latter, Worth Park, Sussex, the astonished guests are shown ballroom, library and billiard room for the exclusive use of servants.—London Standard.

In a wild state the elephant is a nocturnal animal. When domesticated, his size and dark color make him a great sufferer from the heat. To relieve himself he draws water from his stomach by means of his trunk and squirts it over his body.

As True as Gospel.

A married man wails thus:

"Nothing maddens me more than to attempt to read the paper to my wife.

"I'll sit down and begin—it's always something interesting—and she'll be seated for a minute or two. Then she'll rise and say:

"'Go right ahead, dear. I can hear every word.'

"Then she'll prance into the next room and tinkle and tinkle with things on the mantel or the bureau while I raise my voice and have to roar out some paragraph that loses all its sense by that means.

"Then she'll disappear again, and I'll hear her voice come out in muffled tones from the clothes closet:

"'Wait a minute, dear; I'll be back.'

"But I don't wait.

GEN. O. O. HOWARD

Retires From Service After a Brilliant Career.

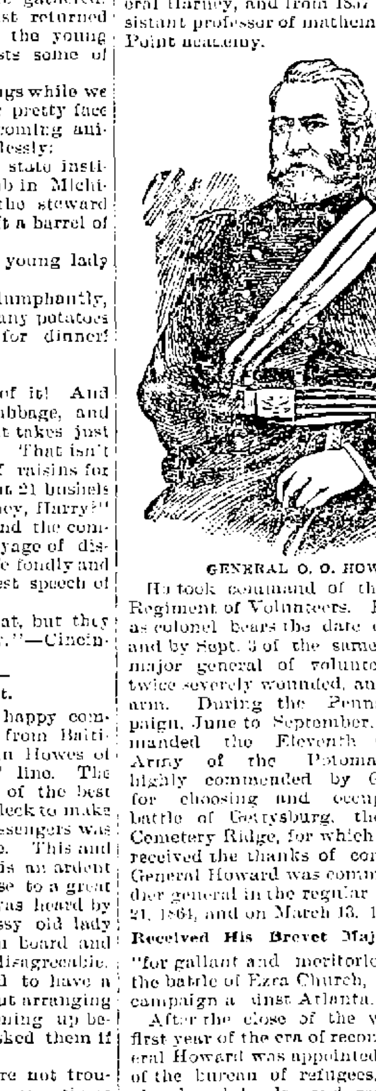
MADE HIS REPUTATION AS AN INDIAN FIGHTER.

He Believed in Christianizing Not Murdering Redskins.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Tonight at 12 o'clock Major-General Oliver Otis Howard, "the Christian hero," having reached the statutory age limit, will retire from the United States army to private life. There will be many changes in the army this year, but the withdrawal of General Howard from active duty is the most important, from the fact that he outranks all officers except Major General John M. Schofield, and his only equal is Major General Nelson A. Miles, of the department of the Missouri, who is spoken of as the successor of General Howard. The retirement of General Howard will cause a vacancy in the grade of major general, to which Brigadier General Thomas H. Ruger of the department of the Pacific, may succeed if his claim is respected.

General Howard's Record.

Oliver O. Howard was admitted as a cadet in the United States military academy at West Point on Sept. 3, 1850, and graduated on July 1, 1854. He was stationed at Westervliet arsenal, with the rank of second lieutenant, for one year, and then was tranferred to Kennebec arsenal as commander. During the Seminole Indian hostilities in Florida in 1857 he was chief of ordnance on the staff of General Harney, and from 1857 to 1861 was assistant professor of mathematics at West Point academy.



GENERAL O. O. HOWARD.

He took command of the Third Maine Regiment of Volunteers. His commission as colonel bears the date of May 28, 1861, and by Sept. 3 of the same year he was a major general of volunteers. He was twice severely wounded, and lost his right arm. During the Pennsylvania campaign, June to September, 1863, he commanded the Eleventh Corps of the Army of the Potomac, and was highly commended by General Meade for choosing and occupying, at the battle of Gettysburg, the position on Cemetery Ridge, for which action he also received the thanks of congress. Major General Howard was commissioned brigadier general in the regular army on Dec. 21, 1864, and on March 13, 1865,

Received His Brevet Major Generalship

"for gallant and meritorious services at the battle of Ezra Church, and during the campaign against Atlanta."

After the close of the war, during the first year of the era of reconstruction, General Howard was appointed commissioner of the bureau of refugees, freedmen and abandoned lands, and remained in that capacity until June 30, 1872. The mismanagement of that department—the freedman's bureau—during the time that General Howard was at its head is a matter of history, and it is the one thing which for a time threatened to be remembered to his discredit. But General Howard has lived down the adverse criticism, and refers now with pleasure and pride to his acts while at the head of that department.

In February, 1872, he was appointed special Indian commissioner to the hostile Apaches of New Mexico and Arizona, and in September, 1874, was assigned to the department of the Columbia. Indian fighting from then until January, 1881, when he was assigned to the command of the department of West Point and superintendent of the United States Military academy, had not changed General Howard's ideas as to the possibility of and despite his many encounters with them he is still of the opinion that under proper influences, by the employment of correct methods, much good in the Indian may be developed.

General Howard came to Governor's island from the department of the Platte, to which he was assigned in July, 1882. The foregoing is in brief the history of O. O. Howard's military career, which, if dealt with in detail, would fill a large volume. The empty sleeve attests his bravery, while numerous gifts and honorable mentions show that his services were appreciated.

"Let him who merits it bear the palm; it is thine," is the inscription in Latin on a beautiful sword presented to General Howard by his men just after the battle of Bull Run. Another heavy sword was voted to the general at the close of the war in a contest at Washington, to decide who was the most popular commanding officer.

A hearing on the remonstrance of the Locks & Canals Co. to the petition of F. H. Butler et al. for widening Varnum avenue will be heard in joint convention Nov. 20, if the council concur.

The resolution for defining the lines of Varnum avenue was passed.

On motion of Alderman S. J. Johnson the city clerk was instructed to notify Councilman O'Connell to appear before the board and apologize for misrepresentations made by him in the hearing on the petition to move his building.

The vote authorizing the moving was reconsidered and the petition was refused. But the building was moved.

The mayor was instructed to petition the legislature to allow the procuring of the procuring of the water for the driven well system from East Chelmsford.

The following Superior court jurors were drawn: John F. Murphy, Ward One; Joseph G. Wilson and William Howard, Ward Three; Addison Churchill, Ward Four; Thomas Hannalin, Ward Five.

The matter of defining the lines of Gorham street, on which hearing was recently had, was referred to the mayor and city solicitor.

WANTS HIS WIFE.

Manchester Man Who Has Lost His Running Mate and Thinks She Is Here.

Lawrence A. Cassidy of Manchester is in search of his wife who, he claims, has eloped and has been in Lowell. To Marshal Eaton of Nashua he said that when on the train at Lowell last week his sister-in-law informed him that his wife had died two weeks ago. She had been away from home but he he had not heard of her illness and the announcement of her death was too startling to be believed at once. The sister-in-law who lives in Lawrence told him his wife had been buried in Nashua. He went there and visited the undertakers and the city clerk but could find no evidence of her demise and now he believes she has eloped with his brother, Michael Cassidy, and what the sister-in-law says is a falsehood to keep him off their track. Cassidy has traced them through Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell and Manchester, but they have eluded him every time. Mrs. Cassidy has one child, a boy, with her.

BLANKETTY-BLANK.

What the Blank. Tell in the Way of a Story—Effectively Used in the Highland Ward.

Strange as it may seem there are voters and many of them who as yet are either ignorant of the manner of voting or are indifferent to the success of the democratic ticket.

A large number of blanks were cast, except in precinct four of Ward One, where they were very few. It is impossible to determine the exact number of blank ballots cast, as the record of them in some cases was not given. However, enough is given to show that in some cases the results would have been different had all the voters marked a ballot.

In all wards the number of blanks on the question of amending the constitution was quite large, which is not surprising, as very few people understood the matter, and fewer were interested in it. In Ward One the blanks were quite few. In the gubernatorial contest in this ward, there were five blanks in precinct one and eight in precinct three. There were none in precinct four and the same number in precinct two. Over 20 blanks were cast in the senatorial contest in that ward, thirteen coming from precinct one where Brady beat Foss 17 votes. Twenty-three blanks were cast in the representative contest.

The Centralville voters cast a few blanks and in four precincts in Ward Two in the vote for governor cast 32 blanks. The blanks in the senatorial contest in this ward amounted to 57 and to 74 in the representative fight. In the congressional fight 55 blanks were noted.

In Ward Three the blanks in four precincts were: governor 37, senator 57, representative, 78, congress 50.

In precinct two of Ward four on the vote for governor 50 blanks were cast while in the other four precincts all told, there were but 20. The five precincts of Ward five threw 51 blanks.

And here is how the republicans dealt with Foss in Ward Four. They threw 102 blank ballots in this contest while in the congressional fight only 47 blanks were cast. Ward Five in the senatorial contest failed to improve 77 opportunities to vote either way, and Fifield and Knox lost their share of 50 ballots which were blank in the Fifth Ward.

The most surprising feature of the blank ballot casting was the number cast in the representative contest in three two wards. One would think with all the candidates up that there would be no difficulty in voting for three or either or both sides but the results are; Ward Four 654 blanks; Ward Five, four precincts, 463.

In Belvidere the blanks cast were very few in number.

There was a chance to change Fifield's vote in this city had voters not thrown blanks.

THE RIGHT VERSION

Of the Montgomery Incident at Huntington Hall, Monday Night.

One of the most prominent republicans in the councils of the city committee says this is the right version of the Montgomery incident, Monday night: Mr. Howe asked Mr. Montgomery at the ante-room if he had an invitation to sit on the stage. Mr. Montgomery said he had and Mr. Howe said "all right, go ahead" but Mr. Montgomery turned the other way. He says that Mr. Montgomery's statement is not right, and no insult was given to the clergyman by Mr. Howe.

OPERA HOUSE NEWS.

As the election is over every one should attend the performance tonight of Rory of the Hill, presented by James C. Roach and a splendid company. It opened last night but with counter attractions it was not greeted as it should have been. The story is one of the most delightful of Irish dramas and Mr. Roach is excellent in his part.

Rosedale opens its engagement tomorrow with the excellent metropolitan company headed by Mr. Joseph Haworth. We bespeak for the engagement a most generous patronage.

At Music Hall.

The Sawtelle company gave another excellent evening in light drama, and crowded houses for the remainder of the week seemed assured, as a nightly change of bill offers an opportunity eagerly embraced usually by theatre goers.

She awoke her husband who slept at her side but Champagne ran up stairs.

Mrs. Duchette is a young and rather pretty woman while Champagne is an elderly man who will tip the scales at about 300 pounds.

POLITICAL NEWS.

Cong. McEttrick says he used two years salary in advancing his campaign. He deserved defeat. But for him McNary would have been elected.

Senator Fitzgerald is elected to take the place of Congressman O'Neil and is the only democratic congressman from Massachusetts. The interests of the Massachusetts democracy will thus rest with a political stripling.

The turn over of the French vote to the republicans together with the candidacy of Thomas F. Connolly were the chief factors that caused Brady's defeat.

Mr. Connolly and his populist friends in the Central Labor union can take to themselves a fair share of the credit of defeating Senator Brady, a staunch friend of labor and of electing Mr. Foss, a republican.

Brady received 338 less than Foss and 195 less than Fifield throughout the city.

In Ward Four Fifield got 620, Brady 532 a difference of 81.

In Ward Three Fifield received 1651, Brady 1522 which shows that there was no truth in the statement that Brady's friends cut Fifield.

HYMENEAL.

The marriage of Manley H. Varney, head clerk on the Massachusetts corporation, and Miss Harriet B. Witherell of Harding street, occurred yesterday afternoon at the bride's home. Rev. ALL REPUBLICAN

Landslide Came in the Empire State.

Morton Swamped the Hill Forces by Over 100,000 Majority.

Wilson, the Tariff Framer, Has Also Fallen by the Wayside.

Connecticut Republicans Elect Coffin For Governor and Will Send Four Men to Congress—An Old-Fashioned Republican Victory In Rhode Island—Bissel Defeats His Democrat Opponent In the New Hampshire Gubernatorial Race. Reports From West Virginia Indicate That Congressman Wilson Is Defeated. The Southern States Appear to Be the Only Ones In the Democratic Column. Probable Complexion of the Next Session of Congress.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Morton has been elected governor of New York by a majority estimated from between 75,000 and 100,000.

LEVI P. MORTON.

Hill's majority in New York city, instead of being 35,000, as estimated, is not more than 2500.

Tammany hall candidates are buried under from 75,000 to 25,000.

For the first time in the history of New York state politics for nearly half a century, the Republicans have a majority below Harlem bridge.

The Republican majority in Kings county is nearly 20,000.

WILLIAM L. STRONG.

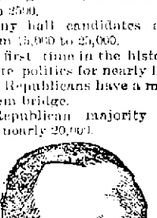
There has never been such a turnover in the history of the state, and the Democracy is dumfounded. The Republican state committee claim the election of the entire Republican ticket by 150,000. The Democratic committee concede the defeat of Hill by 50,000.

Lawyer Goff, who conducted the examination of the witnesses before the Lexow committee, has been elected recorder over Smyth. Tammany candidate, by from 20,000 to 30,000.

Tammany never received such a beating in its history. Not alone is the general county and city ticket snowed under, but the Tammany candidates for assemblymen and aldermen were treated to the most unexpected defeats. Even the so-called Tammany strongholds below Fourteenth street repudiated the tiger.

Such a crushing and humiliating defeat either means the most thorough reorganization of this once all-powerful organization or its retirement as a factor from politics.

Strong's plurality for mayor may exceed 30,000.



JOHN W. GOFF.

One of the greatest surprises as indicated on the face of the returns from the election districts in this city, although later returns may change the complexion of the membership, is that the next board of aldermen will be controlled by the anti-Tammanyites.

This will give the reformers complete control of the municipal politics, something that has not happened before in the history of the present generation. The Republicans can hardly contain themselves for joy. The whole city is glorifying over the result.

CARRIED EVERYTHING.

New Hampshire Governor and Legislature Will Be Republican.

LACONIA, N. H., Nov. 7.—Election returns in New Hampshire were never more tardy, but every additional bulletin shows increasing Republican majorities. Returns thus far indicate that Bissel will have at least 6000 road over Kent. There is no doubt of the election of two Republican congressmen, and the legislature will be Republican by at least 75.

The returns in members of the legislature are the most complete of any, and leave no doubt of the Republican victory. The only question now is one of size. Returns from the cities of the state are meager. Four wards in Manchester show a net Republican gain of 597. Concord will undoubtedly give its normal Republican majority.

Senator Chandler, in an interview, expressed himself as highly gratified at the result of Mr. Morton's canvass in New York. With regard to the outcome in New Hampshire, the senator declared that the Republican gain, as far as reported, no more than justified his expectations.

"There is no reason to doubt," said he, "that we have carried everything in this state. The legislature is surely Republican by the largest majority we have had in many years, and there is no doubt that the members favor my re-election by at least 3 to 1."

Senator Chandler telegraphs the New York Tribune as follows. "The details of the New Hampshire election are not important. The returns come in slowly, but there are great Republican gains all over the state. We will have large Republican pluralities for governor and our two congressmen, also the largest majority in the legislature we have had for many years, insuring the election of one of the most radical Republicans in the country as our next United States senator. But all minor results, such as this, are eclipsed by the magnificent triumph of Morton and Strong in New York city and state. A complete national victory in 1896 is within our reach."

RHODY'S SURPRISE.

Democrats Admit an Old-Fashioned Victory For Their Opponents.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 7.—Colonel Hunter C. White, the chairman of the Republican state central committee, said late last night that there could be no doubt that the Rhode Island voters had piled up an old-fashioned Republican victory. So far as he could see, there was no reason to believe that any later news could change the complexion of the results, and he had no reason to doubt that Rhode Island would be in the Republican line of the next congress.

Chairman Franklin P. Owen of the Democratic state central committee was ready to admit the fact of the Republican victory at 9 o'clock last night. He said the only hope he had ever held was that Mr. Lapham would be able to defeat Mr. Bull in the First district, but he could not deny that the figures as received pointed to a clean sweep for the Republican party.

A CLEAN SWEEP.

Connecticut Republicans Elect Governor and All Four Congressmen.

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—The Republicans elect the governor by 10,000 majority, and all four congressmen. They have a safe working majority in both branches of the legislature, and have gained the biggest victory for years.

THE BIGGEST YET.

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Is Pennsylvania Republicans' Estimate.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Reports from all parts of the state indicate that the vote was fully as heavy as that polled in 1892. The contest in this state, which was the most active in recent years, was fought almost entirely on national lines, and the result was that voters in every county flocked to the polls.

In this city interest centered almost exclusively in the third congressional district, formerly represented by Samuel J. Randall. William McAleer (Dem.) is the present congressman from the Third, but he was defeated for renomination by what is known as the administration faction of the Democracy. In retaliation the McAleerites, who belong to the faction called the Pennsylvania Democracy, cut Joseph P. McCullen, the regular Democratic nominee, and voted for Frederick Halterman, Rep. The Republicans in turn voted for two Pennsylvania Democratic candidates for the legislature from the third and fourth wards.

Late figures show that the Republicans have carried the state by the largest majority ever known. Official returns indicate that Pennsylvania is Republican by 250,000.

HEARD ENOUGH.

Democrats of Ohio Concede Their Utter Rout by Republicans.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Chairman Allen W. Thurman of the Democratic state committee says: "We have heard from only 155 precincts in Ohio, but that is enough. If it keeps up, the Republicans will carry the state by at least 150,000. It means that there will not be a Democratic congressman elected in Ohio." Congressman Thomas L. Johnson concedes his defeat by between 4000 and 5000. McKinley's exact majority is uncertain.

IN WILSON'S DISTRICT.

Author of the New Tariff Law Defeated by a Small Margin.

WHEELING, Nov. 7.—The news from Wilson's district indicates that the fight has been one of the hottest ever fought in the history of the state. Both committees are claiming the district. The returns indicate Wilson's defeat. Dayton (Rep.) appears to have 16 majority. The Republicans obtain a solid delegation.

DAYTON, W. Va., Nov. 7.—Lafollette, the Republican chairman, claims Dayton's election by 1500.

Tillman Democrats Won.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 7.—Talbot, Latimer, Wilson and Newman, Straight, McLauren and Stokes, all Tillman Democrats, are certainly elected to congress. In the Charleston district Elliott, Cleveland Democrat, has probably defeated Murray, Republican, by a safe majority, but there is some doubt. Evans, Democrat, defeated Pope, Independent Democrat, by no less than 12,000. Many white Democrats and Republicans who voted supported Pope. The legislature is overwhelmingly in favor of Tillman for the United States senate.

Breckinridge's Friends Turned Out.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—In Breckinridge's district, Owens (Dem.) has been snowed under by Breckinridge's friends and Denny (Rep.) will probably be elected.

Governor Waite Probably Beaten.

DENVER, Nov. 7.—Returns indicate that McIntyre (Rep.) is elected by a good majority over Waite. Shafroth (Rep.) beats Price (Pop.) for congress in the First district. Bowen (Rep.) may defeat Bell (Pop.) for congress in the Second district, but this is doubtful.

Conflicting Claims.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The chairman of the Republican state committee claims that Estes' plurality for governor will exceed 30,000. The chairman of the Democratic state committee claims a plurality of 12,000 for Budd.

Means Defeat For Manderson.

OMAHA, Nov. 7.—Populists and Democrats have probably carried the legislature, which means the election of Bryant (Dem.) by Populists over Manderson (Rep.) to the United States senate.

Probably One Populist Elected.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 7.—The indications are that the Democrats will elect congressmen in all but one district, the Seventh, which will probably go to Howard, Pop.

Republicans Claim It.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Dispatches were received by the Republican headquarters announcing that the outlook in Wyoming is very promising for the Republicans.

Mississippi Democrats Won.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 7.—Latest official returns indicate the election of a full Democratic congressional delegation from Mississippi.

One Democratic Congressman.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Democrats concede Ohio to Republicans by 90,000. The Republicans have elected 10 out of 11 congressmen.

Six Democratic Congressmen.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 7.—Democrats have elected all congressmen from Louisiana.

Solid For Democrats.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 7.—Democrats have elected all congressmen from Arkansas.

Solid Democratic Delegation.

ATLANTA, Nov. 7.—Georgia elects a solid Democratic delegation to congress.

How Leaders Viewed It.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Governor Greenhalge was interviewed last evening, and said: "I am satisfied with the result. The apparent majority, in spite of the unfavorable weather and the danger of extravagant confidence, is something surprising and indicates the profound feeling of Massachusetts on the great issues of the hour. New York is the great pivotal center. Give the Republican party possession there, and I believe that the cause of good government, of law and order, will be promoted."

The following telegram was sent to President Cleveland in Washington: "Russell defeated by about 60,000. Greenhalge vote about 5 per cent less than last year. Russell's loss, 14 per cent in Boston; 26 per cent in other cities, and 35 per cent in country towns. Russell carries Boston by 3200, as against 9700 last year."

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott said: "Massachusetts has once more placed herself in the ranks of solidly Republican states, where she belongs. The result of the vote has very greatly pleased and encouraged me."

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge: "I am very greatly pleased with the result. We have elected 12 congressmen in Massachusetts, and that is a pretty fair indication of the result all over the country. The Republican party will control the next house of representatives."

Samuel Winslow, chairman of the state Republican committee: "The results bear out the confidence of the state committee and the better judgment of the people of Massachusetts. Governor Greenhalge's very large majority tells the story."

Manley Feels Good.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Joseph Manley, chairman of the Republican national committee, sent the following telegram of congratulations: To J. W. Babcock, chairman of the Republican congressional committee at Washington: "I heartily congratulate you on the result of your labors. Our victory is perfect and complete from Maine to California. The result in New York is the grandest victory of all. We have laid this day a solid foundation upon which to erect in 1896 the statute of national victory for protection and prosperity."

The Dead Monarch.

LIVADIA, Nov. 7.—It is officially stated that the body of the late czar, after lying in state in the church of the palace here, will be taken to Valka and from there conveyed to Sebastopol on board the Russian cruiser Pantyar Merkoviva. At Moscow the body will lie in state for several days at the Archangel cathedral, and at St. Petersburg the remains will repose in state in the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul. At the towns where the funeral train stops on its way to Moscow and to St. Petersburg dinners for the poor will be provided at the expense of the czar, and at each stopping place a requiem mass will be celebrated.

Streets Full of Wires.

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—This city presented a curious appearance yesterday. Almost every telegraph and telephone pole was down and the streets were filled with wires of all sorts. H. F. Ludwig was killed by an electric wire shortly after midnight. His body was horribly burned, and those who removed him to the morgue received severe shocks. Reports from Meriden and New Haven show that those cities were badly afflicted.

Roasted Alive.

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—The residence of Mrs. Julia Wright was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. The fire started in Mrs. Wright's room, and when a search was made nothing but a few of her bones were found. She was about 75 years of age.

Talking Business.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—British officials here have sent an ultimatum to the viceroy demanding a settlement of the Chung-King affair within seven days. The British demands are that Taoti Sheng be dismissed and disgraced, that the Chung-King be saluted with 21 guns from the Taku forts and a money indemnity be paid to the owners of the Chung-King. If these demands are not complied with within the specified time, reprisals upon the part of the British fleet are threatened.

Deputy Marshal Has Fled.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Walter W. Booth, employed by a New York banker, was probably fatally shot by a United States deputy marshal at Elmford polling place yesterday, during an election quarrel. The deputy marshal is missing.
